Prisoners Hamper Firemen In Fighting Flames—Men Trapped Like Rats

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—More than 300 bodies today lie in the morgues of Columbus—mute evidence of the holocaust which swept a cell block at Ohio State Penitentiary here Monday evening.

One hundred fifty-seven injured convicts are in hospitals this morning, also victims of one of the most appalling disasters in the history of Ohio.

Some of them are expected to die, causing the already-high death toll to mount still more.

Many Will Be Blind

Others are being treated for what may prove to be permanent blindness. Still others are raving maniacs. They had been behind the impenetrable bars of their cells for what seemed to them to be hours before they were liberated, following the outbreak of the fire. No wonder they lost their minds! For they visualized themselves as being seared to death while trapped like so many rats.

The screams of those who were being burned alive could be heard for blocks around the big state prison.

And with the mingling of screaming, shrieking sirens of ambulances, fire and police wagons, which dashed into the penitentiary grounds, it was a bedlam turned loose.

Believed Incendiary

The conflagration is believed to have been of incendiary origin, started by prisoners in the hope of escaping in the confusion. Summoned by local radio broadcasting stations, more than 1100 policemen, U. S. regular

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa Newc observed a lone fisherman attempting to woo a few suckers from the Neshannock in the vicinity of the old Rosena dam this morning. He was not meeting with much success.

One of the new additions to the state game farm near Harlanburg is a raccoon. He seems to be much at home in his cage, and cast many inquiring glances at visitors.

Have you one of the fly swatters distributed by the Boy Scouts of New Castle?

Someone suggests that perhaps the reason the rivers in Lawrence county have dropped so much, in the past few days, is because our excellent fishermen have removed so much trout from the streams.

Weatherman told us yesterday that we would probably have snow today. Pa Newc hasn't been able to detect any as yet.

Motorists traveling on the New Castle-Bellwood road are surprised to see the progress made by the A. T. and T. company in laying the underground cables. For miles tile is piled up beside the roads, ready to be put in the ground, to hold the conduits.

Pa Newc certainly will appreciate a new directory. It is now being published.

The last story hour for the kiddies at the public library will be held at 4 o'clock Thursday. The story hour

Hoover Fighting Hopeless Battle For Judge Parker

Friends Of Judge John J. Parker Urge Him To Withdraw As Justice Nominee

SENATE COMMITTEE REJECTS PARKER

Opposition To Parker Coming From Two Sources, Negroes And Labor Federation

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover faced defeat in the senate today in his nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, to fill the vacancy on the United States Supreme Court bench.

Withdrawal of Judge Parker's name was reported impending, for his rejection by the senate is considered certain if it is allowed to go to a vote. The judiciary committee voted 10 to 6 against his confirmation, which is almost tantamount to final rejection. Rarely, if ever, has the senate confirmed a man on whom its judiciary committee has turned thumbs down. In the case of a supreme court nominee it has never done so.

May Withdraw Name

Confronted with such a situation, friends of both Judge Parker and President Hoover were advising the North Carolina jurist to ask that his name be withdrawn—thus escaping the formal rejection by the senate and at the same time relieving Mr. Hoover of embarrassment.

President Hoover was represented as unwilling himself to take the withdrawal initiative. At the White House it was stated the President was standing by his choice and would not surrender. But others were at work to find an escape from a situation that is almost if not quite without parallel in the history of the country.

Two Opposing Factions

To have a candidate for the chief justiceship confirmed only after the stiffest kind of a fight, and then with 25 negative votes cast against him, and to have another justice rejected in the space of two months is a lot that falls to few presidents. The oldest attaché about the capitol could not recall anything like it.

The opposition to Judge Parker comes from two sources—organized

Football Men Win Scholastic Honors At High

Hart Wins College Scholarship As Result Of Scholastic Excellence

Another football player of the New Castle Senior High school team has proven the fallacy of the theory that an athlete is seldom a good student. Following the record of Robert Hoose, football star who has won his way to the finals of the Forensic League in Philadelphia, Merle Hart, lineman has been announced as the winner of one of the coveted Ames C. Miller scholarships in Oberlin College.

The scholarships are awarded to male students who show excellence in character and general ability. Twenty such scholarships are awarded each year by Oberlin College through the generosity of the late Ames C. Miller. High schools in many states enter candidates for one of the scholarships and only those who are outstanding are granted them.

Four Year Scholarship

The scholarship awarded to Merle Hart is for four years, is worth approximately $1200.00 and covers all of his tuition for four years and about one third of his other expenses. He is sixth in the class of 1930, and is the first boy in the class, five girls having slightly higher averages than he. There are 215 students in the class.

At the same time it is announced that James Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gardner of Pearson street, has won a scholarship in Oberlin College for excellence in English. This competition was held late last fall and was entered into by schools in Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. Mr. Gardner's excellence in the English competition won him the scholarship. He is a grandson of the late James A. Gardner, who for fifty years was the city solicitor of New Castle.

AUTHORITIES LAUNCH PROBES IN EFFORT TO DETERMINE RESPONSIBILITY FOR HORROR

Soldiers and Guardsmen Patrol Ohio Prison At Columbus After Appalling Disaster Of Last Night, When Hundreds Of Convicts Were Trapped In Burning Prison

By H. T. HOPKINS
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—State and County officials were at loggerheads here at noon today as to what official should direct the probe of the Ohio State Penitentiary holocaust Monday evening when 317 convicts lost their lives in one of Ohio's most appalling disasters.

County Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., at an investigation which was started at the state prison this morning, by State Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold, demanded that Warden P. E. Thomas consent to his suspension.

Thomas refused to relinquish his office, even temporarily.

Chester argued that Thomas should step aside until the probe shall have been completed. The warden couldn't see it that way.

The county prosecutor then attempted to conduct the investigation.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper at that juncture, stepped into the picture, sending assistant of the attorney general to take charge of the probing proceedings. According to state law, Chester was automatically superseded.

Many Others In Hospital

Columbus, O., April 22.—Three hundred and seventeen convicts, trapped in their cells as red tongues of flames raged and seethed lost their lives in the Ohio State Penitentiary fire disaster, a checkup shortly after noon today revealed, and in the prison hospital were 130 others, more or less seriously burned.

While doctors and nurses were administering to the suffering victims in the hospital, state and county officials instituted investigations to determine the cause of the tragedy.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper issued a public statement in which he expressed his "heartfelt sympathy" for the families of those who died in the catastrophe and announced he had directed the attorney general and the head of the department of public welfare to immediately conduct thorough and sweeping investigations.

Although the death list slowly mounted to 317 during the morning it was believed that none of the other sufferers in the hospital would die from their injuries.

No confirmation could be obtained of reports that convicts lost their lives in a desperate attempt to effect a wholesale jail break. The cause of the fire still was a mystery at noon today.

Epics of heroism were written during the height of last night's fire. Miss Kamanda Thomas, pretty daughter of Warden P. E. Thomas, worked with her father in attempting to bring

Mike Lewis, Sent Up From Youngstown, Is Victim In Columbus Fire

Reports from Columbus, Ohio today of the terrifying disaster at the Ohio State penitentiary in which more than 300 men lost their lives in fire and smoke, reveal the name of Mike Lewis alleged to be a former resident of New Castle.

Lewis was captured and sent "up" in 1929 for the robbery of the Wellie Baking Company in Oak Hill avenue, Youngstown, Ohio. There were two others with Lewis in the robbery, but they made their escape. Lewis confessed his part in the attempted robbery.

Judge George H. Gessner, Youngstown sentenced Lewis to 10 to 25 years at Columbus. The other two men were never apprehended.

The report of Lewis having been a resident of this city was unconfirmed at press time.

DIRECTS NURSES, SENT AID CALLS

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Cool and outwardly calm, Miss Kamanda Thomas, pretty young daughter of Warden P. E. Thomas, was working tirelessly today, shoulder to shoulder with her father, in attempting to bring order and tranquility out of the confusion that followed the disastrous fire at the state prison last night, when 307 lives were lost.

With the placid assurance of which heroines are made, Miss Thomas was directing trustees and hardened convicts, as well as a young army of volunteer women who have stepped into a gruesome and gigantic task to act as nurses and to serve in any capacity where they are needed.

Throughout last night's fire and panic, Miss Thomas worked untiringly, helping her father place guards, directing the activities of physicians and nurses and broadcasting appeals for assistance.

It was Miss Thomas who summoned the National Guard and appealed over the radio for medical assistance. Mrs. Thomas, wife of the warden, collapsed during last night's fire. Her daughter revived her. Then, with her mother safely taken care of, Miss Thomas rushed back to take command of the situation.

Articles III defines aircraft carriers and prohibits fitting landing platforms to existing capital ships, but such devices on any capital ship, cruiser or destroyer, as an aircraft carrier, shall not cause such vessel to be classified as an aircraft carrier.

Article IV provides no aircraft carrier of 10,000 tons or less shall mount a gun above 6.1 inches (155mm) caliber, nor shall such a vessel be constructed within the jurisdiction of the signatories.

Article V adjusts provisions of the Washington treaty regarding gun caliber to the present treaty.

Surface Craft Exempt

Surface craft are also exempt when not specifically built as fighting ships, which are employed on fleet duties or as troop transports other than as fighting ships.

This type may have airplane launching apparatus for not more than three airplanes.

Article IX applies to replacement rules.

Article X refers to notification by the various signatories of the laying of keels of permitted craft.

Article XI pertains to mechanical features of applying rules for disposal of ships to be scrapped.

Article XII defines methods for retaining special vessels listed in the annexes, with a special clause permitting Japan to replace two mine layers during the life of the treaty, and a clause providing for the disposal of Japan of five old cruisers which have been replaced.

Article XIII provides for the retention of various types of ships which have prior to April 1, 1930 been used for stationary training.

A series of annexes describe features necessary to make the treaty effective, including rules for replacement, disposal of vessels, those to be scrapped, converted into hulks, retained for experimental purposes, or converted to target use, or training purposes.

All five powers signs the above portion of the instrument, then comes the part signed only by the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Article XIV, the first of the three power portion, provides for limitation of categories.

Article XV defines cruiser and submarine categories.

Article XVI gives the table of complete tonnage in the cruiser, destroyer and submarine categories substantial as made public here last week.

These new features, however, stand out:

Twenty five percent of the allowed cruiser tonnage may be fitted with aircraft landing platforms.

In the destroyer category up to 16 percent of the tonnage may be employed in vessels of over 1500 tons, provided, however, that destroyers in excess of this tonnage possessed prior to April 1, 1930, may be retained, but no new tonnage may be built until a reduction to the 16 per cent is effected.

Vessels which cause the total tonnage in any category to exceed the figures in the table, shall be disposed of before the expiration of the treaty.

Article XVII provides for the transfer, not exceeding ten percent of the allowed total tonnage between small cruiser and destroyers.

Article XVIII says the United States contemplates completion by 1935 of fifteen cruisers of an aggregate of 150,000 tons, for each of the remaining three of the eighteen total large cruisers, the United States may elect to substitute 15, 166 tons of cruisers of the same type.

Article XIX provides that tonnage laid down in any category subject to limitation in accordance with article XVI shall not exceed that necessary to reach the maximum allowed tonnage, or to replace vessels that become "over age" before December 31, 1936.

Article XX provides that Great Britain may dispose of the Frobenier and Effingham during 1936, and apart from cruisers now under construction, the total replacement tonnage she may complete prior to December 31, 1936, shall not exceed 91,000 tons.

Article XXI contains the contingent clause permitting a "menaced" power to resume construction without consultation.

Article XXII provides for the term of the treaty, with the provision that the submarine safety clause remains in effect with no time limit, and for a further conference in 1935 to replace the present treaty, without prejudice.

The three remaining articles provide method of ratification and deposit.

National Guard and who appealed over the radio for medical assistance.

And during the terrible moments when the flames were raging fiercely one of the convicts, identified only as "Prisoner No. 48,612," went to the radio microphone in the prison chapel and, for eight minutes, related a graphic and dramatic story of the fire, its progress and the efforts to free the hapless convicts trapped in their cells.

Suspends Guard

Warden Thomas today suspended Guard Thomas Watkins. When Watkins returned to the penitentiary this morning for duty, according to the warden, he entered the guard room and replaced the missing cell keys.

It was due to missing keys that cells in the blazing section of the prison could not be promptly opened yesterday evening, Watkins asserted. He further charged that Watkins became panic-stricken after the fire started.

Believed Incendiary.

The fire, which most of the investigation was inclined to believe was not certainly of incendiary origin, broke out shortly before 6 p. m. and swept across the tinderlike roof of one of the cell blocks with great speed. Huge billows of smoke rolled across the inclosure.

Prisoners cowered in their cells. Some beat shrieks against the bars. Many shrieked like madmen. Mercilessly, the flames swept down the cell block and one after another convicts dropped in their tracks. Some of them were burned beyond recognition.

Guards were unable to find keys to the cells. Finally they obtained sledge hammers and crowbars and hammered down the cell doors. In this way hundreds escaped.

Warden Thomas today suspended Thomas Watkins, a guard, who, upon returning to work this morning entered the guard room, according to the warden, and replaced the missing cell block keys. It was due to the missing keys that cells in the blazing section could not be promptly opened last night. The warden also charged that Watkins became panic-stricken after the fire started.

When the fire broke out, 816 convicts were in the cell block which was ravaged by the conflagration. More than 400 escaped unscathed.

STAR LORE

A LITTLE MORE ABOUT CEPHEID VARIABLES

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Cepheid variables derive their name from the star Delta in the constellation Cepheus. This star apparently expands and contracts, expanding when its internal heat becomes so great that it crowds the gaseous matter of which it is composed outward, at the same time increasing its brilliancy. After the star has thus expanded and the excessive accumulation of heat has been relieved, the Cepheid settles back to its minimum diameter. These expansions and contractions are commonly spoken of as pulsations. Cepheids are well distributed throughout the galaxy, and are also found in the magellanic clouds, in globular clusters, and in other galaxies outside our own.

WELFARE DIRECTOR AT COLUMBUS COMMENCES RIGID INVESTIGATION

demanding to know why the prisoners had not been released from their cells when the fire grew serious.

Six Witnesses.

"Where were the keys to those cells?" demanded Griswold.

And, one after another, six witnesses paraded before him and told incoherent stories as to what became of the keys, the life bars to the trapped convicts in the blazing inferno of tiers of cells. The witnesses admitted that the keys to the cells, it was explained, were kept in the guard room more than 300 yards across the prison courtyard from the burning cell block. They disappeared quickly after the fire. None of the witnesses could account for them. There were 12 keys. Only a few were accounted for.

But then, grudgingly enough, there's no use for them—now.

Warden P. E. Thomas, of the penitentiary, in a statement to the director, declared that he was in his residence in the front of the prison, when he heard the cry: "Fire!"

"I rushed to the guard room," he said. "There I turned to a guard to get the keys. I ran outside the prison where I posted guards in case a concentrated effort to escape was made."

"Who was that guard," asked Griswold.

"I don't know," replied the warden.

Sergeant Testifies.

Sergeant Edward Jenkins, of the guards, told an almost similar story. He, too, said he had turned in a second alarm, and after running to the scene, had returned to the guard room and then went outside the walls to see that guards were around the prison.

"What were your instructions in case of such a fire," queried the welfare director.

"I didn't have any, we don't have fire so often," was the reply.

James C. Woodard, deputy warden, next assumed the witness chair, which in this instance, changed to be a large upholstered chair in the luxurious living quarters of the warden. Woodard, who seemed to have aged several years during those few terrifying hours of the disaster slowly told his story. It is:

"I was two squares away from the prison, enroute home, when great billows of smoke came belching over the walls. I rushed to the prison."

"I ran through the guardroom into the prison courtyard. Flames were eating at the center section of the cell block. I obtained some fire ladders and placed them against the windows. By the time I reached the prison, some of the cells had been unlocked."

Here Griswold interrupted.

"Where were the keys to the cells?" he demanded again. "How many are there?"

Woodard continued:

Twelve Keys.

"There are 12 keys. They hang on hooks in the guardroom. There are two keys for each tier of cells. They were gone."

"As I rushed through the yard, prisoners were screaming. I went back to the guardroom and got the keys to the adjoining cell block and freed the panic-stricken prisoners there."

"Some of the firemen were then trying to liberate prisoners in the burning cell block. They had axes and were forcing the bars apart."

The convicts in the first four tiers were freed. Most of the others died.

Director Griswold stopped Woodard and asked:

"Who rescued those prisoners who escaped?"

"Mostly prisoners," was the answer. Night Captain of the Guards John Hall next testified.

"Who has charge of the keys?" came the insistent question from Griswold.

"I have," said Hall.

"What became of them?"

"I don't know, guards and prisoners scrambled for them."

"Did you see any guards rescue any trapped convicts," the Welfare Director asked.

"No, the smoke was too dense."

"Did you see the flames?"

"Goodness, yes!"

And then, just as he finished, he said: "I never in my life saw so much smoke as was in that cell block."

Trusties In Conflict

L. G. Schooley, a trustee, and former Cleveland councilman, who was sent up after being implicated in Cleveland's famous playground bribery scandal case, was another witness.

He said he was in the guardroom when the first alarm spread.

"Did you get the keys?" came Griswold's question.

"I reached for the key rack, but it was empty," Schooley declared.

In contrast to that statement was the testimony of Cleveland Johnson, another trustee, who not only declared that Schooley had the keys, but also that Schooley had refused to give them to him when he had pleaded for them.

Director Griswold, after spending the better part of the night and early morning in the case, adjourned for a brief time, but later continued the investigation in order to solve the enigma:

"Where were the keys?"

Zeppelin Flying Over Rhineland

(International News Service)

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, April 22.—Carrying sixteen passengers and a crew of forty-one, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin left her hangar here today for a flight over the Rhineland.

Later in the week the Graf is to make a trip to England, marking the first time a Zeppelin has soared over that country since the World War.

Soon after the English flight, the Graf will be made ready for her trans-Atlantic flight to Rio de Janeiro.

TERRIFYING SCENES INSIDE PRISON WALLS AS MANY ARE KILLED

soldiers and state militiamen were soon at the scene of the fire inside the prison walls. They prevented any contemplated escape.

The blaze originated in a new cell block which was nearing completion and which contained no wiring, making the theory of incendiaries appear logical. A large quantity of oil which had been used in soaking cell blocks was in the cell house. Convicts are presumed to have thrown a lighted rag or paper into some of the oil.

Embalmers Summoned

Most of the dead were taken in army trucks to an improvised morgue at the State fair grounds where 65 embalmers, some of whom had been summoned from Cincinnati, awaited them.

Appealed to by radio, doctors and nurses of surrounding towns rushed to the penitentiary and worked throughout the night with the medical people of Columbus.

National guardsmen from cities near here also speeded to the State prison to aid their comrades. The radio broadcasting stations also sent out orders to the Naval Reserves to report for duty.

Quiet Serious Riot

The large force of soldiers, National guardsmen and officers not only precluded possible escapes, but they succeeded in quickly quelling what appeared to be the inception of a riot among prisoners who had been turned loose into the penitentiary courtyard, within the walls.

While their fellow prisoners uttered their blood-curdling dying cries—as they were being roasted to death—those outside the cells set fire to the pen walled mills. Slight damage was done.

The cursing convicts, hurling stones and bricks, broke flood lights with the aid of which the flames were being combated. They next tried to set fire to 400 gallons of gasoline in a fire truck, throwing a blazing blanket under which they were at the first firemen who attempted to drag away the burning blanket, were attacked by the inmates. Then the jail-birds cut two leads of fire hose.

Fire Chief Manhandled

Fire Chief A. E. Nice of the Columbus department, when he tried to connect a hose to a hydrant, was picked up bodily by the rebellious convicts and was thrown against a brick wall. He was not seriously hurt.

One thousand four hundred sixty-six of the 4300 prisoners were "at large" in the court yard at one time. They were finally herded back into cells by 300 soldiers and guardsmen.

An official investigation which was instituted by State Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold last night developed the fact that it was at 20 minutes after the fire alarm was sounded that keys were secured and the doors to cells in which prisoners were trapped were opened. The probe is being continued today.

NATIONAL CHILD HEALTH DAY

FORTY-THREE million of our population are under eighteen years of age. Today's younger generation is actually larger than the country's whole population in 1870.

National Child Health Day, then, which is to be celebrated on May 1, takes on an importance which every citizen-parent from President Hoover down can scarcely fail to recognize.

Incidentally, President Hoover, as president of the American Child Health Association, originated the idea of National Child Health Day and has had this to say of the entire child health problem:

"If we could grapple with the whole child situation for one generation, our public health, our economic efficiency, the moral character, sanity, and stability of our people would advance three generations in one."

"These complex problems can not be solved by an iron-clad system of governmental action."

"When all public interest has expended itself, child development still rests with parents, and parents need much bringing up. Much can be done by the waking of public conscience in every community. Much still remains to be carried out by action from the state in its local as well as national phases."

It may be well to reflect on what this community is doing to help the national government in this important matter.

THE CHALLENGE OF IDLENESS

While the unemployment situation is gradually improving, the leaders of industry are wisely giving attention to the general subject of idleness. Julius Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's national business survey, at a meeting in New York, declared that the crisis we have been through should help us in trying to avert that sort of thing in the future. He said the curtailment of seasonal unemployment and the handling of unemployment arising from the inevitable introduction and improvement of machinery are the two principal tasks facing American industry, if it is to continue the rate of progress of the past.

How is the solution of the problem to be brought about? In the first place, Mr. Barnes says that unavoidable seasonal unemployment, which exists because of weather conditions over which man has little control, should not be classed as unemployment at all. Then he adds: "Large industry, which manifestly cannot continue its orderly production of goods beyond the current market absorption, must be encouraged to provide employment by expanding its facilities with prudent judgment in confidence of the requirement of the years to come of a great and advancing people, and at the same time so to improve the functions of distribution as to relieve the workers as far as possible of the fear of their daily wage."

In this connection he pays a tribute to the prudence and constructive statesmanship of American labor by saying that if existing high wage scales "had been the result of force brought upon employers and not of the philosophy of a sound measure of productivity this employment crisis would have been used to lower wage scales in this country." It is a big problem; but with labor and capital working in unison and with the sympathetic help of governmental forces all should eventually be worked out.

SOUVENIR HUNTING

Souvenir hunting has a history, to which this generation has no intention of writing finis.

Three centuries ago the local Indians stole scalps as souvenirs of happy moments spent among the paleface settlers. A century later the more enterprising of the settlers were seizing ships. By some they were called pirates, by others patriots. A hundred years ago the souvenir-hunting fever ran to effigies of congressmen. Today it runs to everything. Nothing is safe from this ubiquitous pest. Wrecked automobiles are quickly dismantled. Epoch-making airplanes must be protected against them. Lindbergh's ships seldom come back from the laundry. Home-run baseballs and balls hit into the bleachers never return to the playing field. Hotels and pullman cars keep the nation supplied with towels, linen and useful little knick-knacks.

Plymouth Rock was being chipped away to nothingness until a steel barrier was built around it. The federal government must be constantly on guard against souvenir-hunting vandals who knock chips from monuments and public buildings. Not even the monuments on the Gettysburg battlefield are safe.

When the souvenir craze hits a citizen he usually loses all reason, morality, honesty, honor, sentiment and discretion. He seeks to justify his purloinings and spoiliations by the strange logic that the taking of that possessed of only commemorative or sentimental value cannot be stealing.

The incurable stage has arrived when hotels must chain fast their Gideon Bibles.

FAMILY CASH

Forty-one per cent of the wealth of the United States is in the hands of women, financial statisticians estimate. This includes real estate, stocks, bonds and cash in bank. That places womanhood as an important "prospect" for banks and investment brokers.

Theoretically, then, fifty-nine per cent of the wealth is owned by men. Theoretically it is used advisedly, for if the pay checks issued to husbands and bank accounts in their names were credited to the wives who really control them, the percentages would be reversed.

Poor man! He is in a sorrier condition than the figures indicate, disconcerting though they are. How far off is the time when husbands will be arguing indignantly with their wives for a generous allowance, instead of doling money out to their wives in grudging spirit.

Uxorial reaction to this possibility is that it would serve the "old tight-wads" good. The housewife's chronic complaint is that men will never learn that it takes more than cigar money to operate the house.

No doubt modern conditions have created new causes for domestic strife and divorces, but the good old reliable home-wrecker is the inadequate domestic budget and the "provider" who demands choice cuts on pin money.

Opportunity often finds the doorbell broken.

Human nature never changes, but it often short-changes.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Vallee Feller—first name Rudy—has written a piece for the current Pictorial Review, entitled, "Did College Help Me?"

Yes, and no. The liabilities are not formulated. Among the assets he mentions his course in psychology—or, as Andrew J. Brown calls it, "sirology." The intricacies and peculiarities of that branch of science, the Yogi of Yodle thinks, are responsible for his almost fiendish knowledge of what, when, where and how to croon.

Be that as it may, The Pastor repeats a former warning: When the magic of Rudy's dulcet tones strikes awhirl your tympanum and thence filtrates to your spleen, pancreas, heart and liver; when your scalp goes itchy, your stomach trembles and your solar plexus quivers like a dish of jelly cut a table with a game leg, REMEMBER—

He ain't a yodlin' fer you; he's a yodlin' fer yeast!

VEGETARIAN.
Tabatha Goodwin, who plays Camilla Del Val in support of Vivienne Osborne in the Charles D. Pitt production of "The Lawless Lady," is a vegetarian.

Ten years ago, on a visit to the Cudahy packing plant, she placed her dainty foot across the threshold of the slaughter house. Just as she stepped into the shambles a woolly sheep was advancing to its death. The animal, with instinct aglow, cast a last, long, agonized glance in Tabatha's direction, and as their eyes met—her eyes and those of the doomed sheep—Tabatha Goodwin (who plays Camilla Del Val in support of Vivienne Osborne in the Charles D. Pitt production of "The Lawless Lady") registered a vow to heaven that, so help her Bob, never thereafter, if she lived as long as a musical comedy joke, would she partake of steaks, chops, pig's knuckle, liverwurst or aught pertaining thereto.

Sylvester Sullivan, Broadway phrase jester, vouches for the truth of this story. And like Bernard Shaw, Brother Sullivan never utters a lie unless he believes it to be the truth.

FOLLOW THE LEADER.

We never knew what a lot of Roark Bradford there were lying around loose till Marc Connolly came along and popularized "Old Man Adam and His Children."

Scribblers brought out the volume last year. It's probably one of the finest pieces of humor that have been written in English in the last century. Naturally it didn't take hold at first. The likelihood is it might have been forgotten for twenty years, like Conrad's "Lord Jim," if Connolly hadn't evolved a play out of it, which he called "The Green Pastures." And Connolly had the devil's own time getting the piece produced. There wasn't a soiled line in it and naturally the lads who hold the purse strings of the Broadway theatres were diffident about taking a chance.

Dirt has become a tradition on Mazda Lane, and everything else is looked on askance.

Anyway, Connolly, having got the thing across, didn't see why he shouldn't get all the traffic would bear, and in consequence issued the play in book form, which naturally cut in on the sale of Roark Bradford's stuff. Little oddities of ethics, however, don't hamper our modern playwrights.

And now the MacMillan crowd, publishers, announce a forthcoming effort along the same general lines laid down by Bradford. It's called "Black Genesis," by Bertie Somebody and Sam Whatsname.

What this country needs today more than a good five-cent cigar is a little innate respect for originality.

FAME.

During the intermission at one of the big film premiers on Broadway, the usual pack of youthful female autograph hounds bounded down the aisles with poised pens and open books to waylay Doug and Mary, the Talmadges and the rest of screen-land's elite.

"Why don't you go down and get the autograph of that white-haired gentleman in the fifth row?" said a newspaperman to one of them.

"Who is he?" inquired the girl excitedly.

"Only General Pershing."

She smiled in mingled mirth and pride.

"Signatures of soldiers don't mean anything, stoopid!"

AD SMILES.

As scarce as a one-syllable word in a Bill Bolitho article.

A SICK MAN PLEADS WITH HIS WIFE

When I am sick, sit by my bed
And hold my hand and stroke my head,
And bring me dainties now and then
Until I say I'm well again.

Don't leave the room and me alone.
Let others use the telephone.
Let others when the doorbell rings
Take in what mail the postman brings.

And if, by chance, should company
Don't stay out talking in the hall.
If you've a secret you would tell
Please let it wait 'till I get well.

Oh, wife, remain with me I beg
And serve my drink of milk and egg,
And if I groan, please do not scold
Or say: "You're not a seven-year old!"

Or when I've called the doctor in
Don't stand beside my bed and grin.
When I my symptoms dire relate
Don't say: "It's something that he ate."

Beside my bed draw up your chair
And sigh to show me that you care.
Have pity for my sorry plight,
Don't try to tell me I'm all right!

Dear Hints and Dints: This one struck me as being so funny I thought I would send it in, so here goes:

A German lady who was very deaf stopped a milkman as he was passing the house the other day and asked him how much he charged for a quart of milk and then put up her ear trumpet to catch the reply. He quickly drew a quart of milk and emptied it into the trumpet; and the result has been that he has to go three miles out of his way to keep out of sight of the lady's son, who sits on the porch with a shotgun waiting for him to pass.

Increase In Letter Postage Condemned As Unwise Move

Proposal By Postmaster General Revives Discussion Of Excessive Costs Under Franking Privilege
And Lack Of Economy

Renewal of suggestions for increased postal charges, as made by Postmaster General Walker, F. Brown, produces the same public reaction that has been characteristic of all proposals of the sort in the past. It is maintained by many that two-cent postage on letters is an established policy and must not be changed, regardless of the cost of the service.

The extensive use of the franking privilege also receives attention, along with service rendered to other government departments. It is conceded by the CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL that "it might not be unwise for the government to revise its postal rates upward," in view of Postmaster General Brown's recommendation of a rate of 2½ cents an ounce. That paper, however, suggests that "before the proposal is carried out a thorough survey of the department along scientific lines ought to be made in order that the exact condition of affairs might be known. Such an inquiry might develop the fact that no increase in rates would be necessary, that the desired results could be achieved through a reorganization of methods.

In an establishment as large as is the post office department and where political considerations rather than business qualifications often are the chief factors in employment of a manager, there are bound to be many loose ends and neglected corners," concludes the Daily Mail.

"Before even considering a new letter rate," advises the DETROIT NEWS, "a much more thorough presentation is in order upon the continuing losses due to political operation of the department. If Mr. Brown evades this he will be doing just what his predecessors have done before him; but the easy way of at once continuing the abuses and paying for them at the expense of individual and business letter mail will find as little endorsement now as it has in the past. It is to be remembered that the department through a new tariff and in other ways the public is being asked to pay and pay and pay. If indeed he has political premeditation in mind, it appears that Mr. Brown has chosen the certain route to prompt and emphatic rejection."

An increase in postage with the object of wiping out a deficit falls in the line of the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE, which says as to the various Federal departments, in arguing the matter: "Following precisely the same reasoning, the department of commerce shows a deficit of $58,000,000. The agricultural department has a deficit in excess of $155,000,000, and this takes no account of the deficit which is anticipated when the federal farm board attempts to balance its books after letting the farmers use $150,000,000 in trying to control the wheat and cotton markets. We do not speak of a deficit in these departments, because we recognize that they are performing a service to the public."

The post office department, there is no more reason why the individual letter-writer should pay his extra portion of the cost of the service than why the individual farmer or business man should be charged precisely what it costs to serve him through the agricultural or the commerce department. The taxpayers of the country provide that service for the individual farmer and business man. And the taxpayers can well afford to pay what it costs to give the American people a two-cent letter postage."

Two-cent postage "is one of the nation's institutions," in the opinion of the PORTSMOUTH, OHIO, TIMES which expresses doubt that Postmaster Brown "will ever get very far with his recommendation for an increase in the first-class rate." That paper favors the indirect payment through taxation, though it concedes that Mr. Brown's arguments are sound and may lead to increased efficiency. The BUTTE DAILY POST states: "Of course, all the expenses of the Post Office Department have to be paid by the people, and the annual deficit has been met by taxation."

"It is a public-service enterprise for which the public pays," says the HAVERHILL GAZETTE, "and whether the public pays in the form of rates adequate to meet the cost of the service or in the form of taxes to make up deficits is not basically important. This conclusion does not mean that we oppose rates adequate to meet the cost of the service. Such an increase would have the desired effect of placing the cost of the service on those who use the service. Such an increase should not be made, however, until department officials are sure that they are running their department as efficiently as possible. And, finally, an increase successfully applied should not be interpreted as establishing a business enterprise on a paying basis; it should be understood as merely achieving concentration on a single method of paying for a public service."

"No one knows better than Ohio's member of the Cabinet," suggests the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, "that factors other than the present two-cent postage play a part in keeping his operations in the red. The franking abuse is one factor; virtual subsidy of air-mail lines is another. The PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN argues: "First class mail is the basic business of the Postoffice Department as a great public utility. It has always paid its way, and does so today. No deficit to which it does not contribute should be charged against it."

"So far as the consuming public is concerned," advises the KALAMAZOO GAZETTE, "it makes little difference whether a postal deficit is prevented by a higher postage rate or made up from tax revenues; in either case it is the public which foots the bill. If Mr. Brown for any reason prefers the former way, however, there can be no harm in his submitting the idea before the bar of popular sentiment."

"No other public utility," contends the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, "would expect to operate without loss if it did an enormous amount of work for other organizations without any compensation. The post office carries the mail for every other department of the government free; the amount of the congressional mail carried under frank would be enough to bankrupt any public utility."

Why do we observe Sabbath on Sunday instead of Saturday? The Sabbath, also known to Christians as the Lord's Day, denotes the first day of the week as that of Christ's resurrection, and is observed as the day of rest and worship. The seventh day of the week, appointed in the decalog as a day of rest to be observed by the Jews, is on Saturday, and they worship and rest on that day.

How close to the Atlantic seaboard does the gulf stream flow, and what is its temperature?

The proximity of the stream varies from 15 to 100 nautical miles off the coast, being closest to the Florida New Jersey and Maine coasts. The temperature of the stream is approximately 93 degrees in summer and 84 degrees in winter off the Florida coast; 88 degrees in summer and 79 degrees in winter off Cape Hatteras, and 72 degrees in summer and 50 degrees in winter off the Banks of Newfoundland.

What is the origin of the poll tax, and when did it first appear in use in the United States?

The poll, or head tax, is one of the most primitive forms of taxation. W. R. Stack, chief of the financial and economic research section of the United States treasury, declares. It was used in Roman and Medieval times, and in this country during Colonial times in New England and the south, though not in New York. It is impossible to state in which colony it first appeared, but probably in Massachusetts.

Wright Candidate For State Assembly

Announces Candidacy For Republican Nomination In Second District

In announcing my candidacy for member of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania from the Second District of Lawrence County, I want to assure my friends of any part in it. They are one and all advised against it. I alone am responsible for it.

I have been a stock raiser and farmer all my life, with the exception of two years spent outside of the state. Am a Republican, whose father was one of the founders of the party.

If nominated and elected, will work in harmony with Senator Weingartner in securing our full share of the gasoline tax, which is the most important duty we will have to perform.

I believe a wise and sensible economy is now especially needed, by the individual, the family, and the state; that a substantial tax reduction can be made without curtailing our road building program or lessening the efficiency of our schools.

I am refraining from plastering the landscape with my pictures; being governed by economy, modesty and the feeling they may be painful reminders.

While I have never directly asked anyone to vote for me, and I never intend to do so, I am asking all of my friends to rescue and redeem the party of Abraham Lincoln and our fathers; from the hands of those who have too long controlled it in our state; by the lavish use of money, and are now squabbling among themselves and vote for that patriotic Republican, who will do his best to break the strangle hold of the various monopolies on the state and people. To refer Gifford Pinchot who is going to be nominated and elected governor of this great state of Pennsylvania in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty.

Prayer In Congress

The chaplain, Rev. ZeBarney T. Phillips, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, source of our being, goal of our desires, and guide of these our pilgrim days, be with us as we turn aside from the ceaseless fret of life that we may contemplate its meaning. In the fullness of the times Thou dost gather Thy light into life, that even simple folk might see Thy glory in the face of Jesus Christ.

Grant, therefore, to each one of us that, from His gracious words, the deep compassion of His heart, His friendship for the fallen, the tender grace of His forgiveness, the crown of thorns, the cruel cross, the open shame, we may learn the meaning of Thy love and be persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Amen.

"Carrying Coals to New Castle"

'Twas in merry old England, many years ago, that they coined this famous expression of futility. In those early days—"carrying coals to New Castle" was as useless as shoveling sand against the tide.

But today with our great modern transportation facilities, the cream of the world's goods is economically available right at our doors. Carrying coals to New Castle is today, not a fable but a fact.

The New Castle Coal Merchants Association bring to you just such a fuel—selected from the finest bituminous coal veins of Western Pennsylvania—known the world over for its inherent high quality, high heat value and low waste content.

They have studied, compared and analyzed this coal with an expert eye to the end that you may enjoy the economy and value of a fuel that lasts longer and gives more heat.

If you would cash-in on the advantages of this specially selected coal—if you would assure yourself of the quick, prompt and courteous service to which this organization is pledged, look for the circular emblem herein displayed. It is a guarantee of 100 per cent fuel satisfaction.

Time Child Who Talks Too Much

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Cephas is six. He talks too much, particularly at the dinner table. On and on he goes as if forever. Perhaps he is ignored because he bores the rest of the family. But Cephas is persistent, he expects attention; if he gets a moment, or it only now and then he must work hard to be satisfied.

You want Cephas to express himself. Also you want him to learn to let others have the privilege to express themselves; you want him not to be a nuisance.

Now don't tell Cephas he must not talk. You want him to talk; of course. Don't scold him; don't make him feel you are bored by him and disgusted with his ceaseless talking. To show a child your annoyance by any kind of conduct by him, or to nag eternally at him for it without getting results, amounts to nothing but to make him worse and to make you less a comrade of him. Do something about it.

Quietly announce to Cephas at the beginning of a meal, for instance, that you and the remainder of the family will listen earnestly to him for just five minutes. Then carry out your promise. Don't wander off; be courteous; pay strict attention; try to enjoy his remarks.

In his extreme case set a clock down on the table when the meal begins. Call his attention to the clock, and show him exactly where the hands will be when he must end his talking until a definite time which you shall name. If there are three other members of the family, say, he must then be quiet for exactly 15 minutes. This must be clear to Cephas at the outset.

Let him know that if he violates this rule once he must finish his meal away from the family. Let there be no doubt, no fooling. You have given him the first round. He will observe that you are very fair. Easily can he see that others must have as much opportunity for talking as he has, that he is not more important than the rest. This he will learn very concretely. He must get a sense of relative time values and an equable distribution of opportunity for all members of the family to express themselves.

This appears to be very formal. Of course it is. Nevertheless, it is definite and the clock has no feelings. It doesn't wobble, and it shows no partiality. A child can easily learn to respect its commands. Once he has several such experiences he doubtless will adjust himself, and the clock will not be needed. Certainly the family will not go on speaking by the clock.

I shall be glad to answer in these columns, questions addressed to me in care of this paper, provided these questions seem to be of general interest.

If you have a question you would like to have answered personally, write me, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Tomorrow: Some Family Games.

Nearly 800 Have Fishing Licenses

By End Of Season, About 3000 Licenses Will Have Been Issued By This County

Between 700 and 800 fishing licenses have been issued so far this season, at the Lawrence County court house. Fishermen often obtain their fishing licenses about a month before the opening of trout season, April 15.

By the end of the season, it is probable that some 3,000 licenses will have been issued by Lawrence County. Everyone from 14 years of age and up must obtain a license. Last year, the oldest person to obtain a license was a woman of the New Castle vicinity who was 85 years old. This year, as yet, this woman has not applied for her fishing license.

You can't blame the French for asking security. Look what a mess Uncle Sam got in by lending money without it.

Engineer Speaks To Local Society

H. N. Blackmon Of Westinghouse Company At Meeting Of New Castle Engineers Society

H. N. BLACKMON

"A prisoner crept up a model prison wall and as he came within the range of vision of an 'electric eye,' a revolver trained on the prisoner was fired. Simultaneously, a bell on the prison wall set up a furious clanging and flood lights were spotted on the prisoner."

This was only one part of the talk on "Engineering Developments" given last night by H. N. Blackmon, engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company before the New Castle Engineers Society held last night in the assembly room of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power company on East Washington street.

The "electric eye" performs many marvelous operations such as sorting a passing line of apples for size, color or imperfections, turning on lamps in signs for advertising and in street lights for illuminations at the approach of dusk; and controlling the accurate cutting of white-hot steel billets at an estimated saving of thousands of dollars a year to the steel industry.

Mr. Blackmon said that if two of the new Westinghouse big pumps were installed in the "Titanic" they would have kept her afloat until aid arrived, enormous generators to supply billions of homes with electricity, giant "Deion Grid" old circuit breakers which disrupt a 220,000 volt circuit in a small fraction of a second to protect overhead transmission lines and station equipment worth millions of dollars from the ravages of lightning.

Two Auto Victims May Not Survive

JOHNSTOWN, April 22.—Miss Myrtle Holloway, 21 and Rose Yarchak 5, were probably fatally injured when struck by automobiles in this city. In both instances the victims are said to have darted from the sidewalks into the paths of approaching vehicles. Both suffered fractures of the skull and were in critical conditions tonight at local hospitals.

Peter's Adventures

LITTLE MUD BABY

Peter listened to the story of Mayfly's life and felt very sad.

"One day is so short a while to live," said he. "Why, there must be so many things you want to do, so many places you would like to go, and cent!"

"Now, don't you worry about that!" replied the Mayfly, cheerily. "I'm perfectly satisfied with my lot. In fact, I think Old Mother Nature's arrangement keeps me out of a lot of trouble. You see, I never grow weary nor discontented. Everything seems so wonderful to me and if there are a lot of things I never do nor know, what of it? What you've never had you never miss! My, but I'm happy. And tonight when I am happiest, I shall pass into dreamland. If it pours cats and dogs tomorrow I shall not care! I thank my lucky stars, though that I was not born on a rainy day. Then I should have had to spend my brief life under cover, and what fun would that have been?"

Peter thought of something.

"I can't see why you should mind the wet so much. Didn't you tell me you spent two years in the pool?"

"Uh huh!" admitted Mayfly. "But that was when I was a Larva and had other ideas about life!"

"How did you get into the pool?" demanded Peter. Mayfly chuckled.

"Well, it happened this way. One day my mother was flying over the pool and she noticed the thick mud at the bottom. 'Ah ha!' said she to herself, 'there's a safe place to hide my babies. No one will ever find them until they are big enough to take care of themselves. So she dropped me into the water and I sank into the mud—I was a tiny egg then, all done up in a water-proof pupa case. And in the mud I stayed until this very morning, when I burst my swaddling clothes and climbed up to the reed stalk and out of the pool in much the same way as Dragon-Fly did."

She Lost 19 Pounds Of Fat In 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat." Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's life-giving salts is carried to every organ, blood, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Eckerd's of New Castle Inc. or any live drugist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

Business Women Hear Health Talks

Delegates Are Elected To Attend State Convention In Lancaster, May 15

One of the most interesting programs of the year was enjoyed by members of the Business and Professional Women's club Monday evening at their regular meeting in the Y. W. C. A. Lt was Health Night and the program was in charge of the Health Committee with Miss Kathryn Hite, chairman. Dr. A. W. Shewman, Miss Elizabeth Reed, dietician at the Jamestown Memorial hospital, and Dr. Elizabeth McLaughry were speakers.

Dr. Shewman talked on Ear, Nose and Throat Infections and the dangers resulting therefrom if such infections are neglected. He said that such conditions called for systematic as well as local treatment.

Miss Reed talked interestingly on Diet in Regard to Health. She divided food into its composite parts and explained the action of each part in maintaining health. A list of balanced menus with approximate costs was prepared by Miss Reed for the club.

Dr. McLaughry spoke on Keeping Fit After 30. She gave a practical demonstration of exercises for health in which the club took part and which was much enjoyed. She said that not only were all forms of exercise necessary to health but humor and laughter were also valuable assets to health.

In connection with the National Health Program, Miss Hite is making a survey of the local club to find out how many members have had a health examination during the past year and how many days have been lost on account of sickness.

After the program a short business session was held at which time delegates were elected to attend the state convention to be held in Lancaster, May 15-17. Lucille Lutton, Mary Wilson and Nance Pugh were named as delegates and Alice Sterling, Jean Montgomery and Ruth Zerner as alternates.

An invitation was extended to the club to attend a style show to be given by the Sharon B. P. W. C. Tuesday evening, May 13. Several members of the Sharon club were guests of the New Castle club last evening. Miss Margaret McQueen of Sewickley was also present.

Health Of Parents Is Also Important

"With the very logical interest being developed at this season of the year in child health, parents should not lose sight of the significant fact that they themselves represent a health problem. Very often grown-ups become so absorbed in the well-being of their offspring that their attention to health matters ceases at that point. Which is good so far as it goes, but it does not go far enough," said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health, today.

"This fact was forcibly demonstrated the other day when a mother and father brought their two children into a physician's office for a thorough examination. They realized that their young boy and girl should be carefully checked for physical defects and displayed a most intelligent attitude on the subject. It so happened that both of the young people did need slight corrections which, had they not been remedied, conceivably could have caused serious trouble in later years. But the interesting point of the matter was that a diplomatic question by their doctor elicited the information that neither of the parents had ever been examined for latent troubles themselves. Feeling well, and therefore apparently not in need of a physician's services, they had focused their interest on the children alone.

"Fortunately for them, however, they also decided to be examined; and in both instances corrections were indicated. Moreover, had they not been made, there was a definite possibility that in a few years, at least, serious difficulties might have developed. While this undoubtedly is an extreme case, it nevertheless decidedly carries a lesson.

"Of course, thousands of persons attain middle age without developing serious illnesses or complications that will shorten life later on if unattended. But that is no reason for any mature person to conclude that the absence of pain or positive sickness is an assurance that their present physical condition is one hundred percent and will thus continue indefinitely.

"The keys to long and happy life, barring violence and accident, are the conscientious observance from day to day of the fundamental rules of health, and an annual checkup for the discovery of conditions which are observable only by the practiced eye of the physician.

"It therefore follows that while parents are interesting themselves in their children's welfare, they should display in these matters a corresponding interest for themselves.

"Healthy children are the nation's asset, but healthy grown-ups represent the country's present working capital. To slight the well being of either class is consequently very foolish. Long and happy life insists upon daily attention and the annual check-up for both young and old. See that it gets it."

Big Shipment Of Beer Is Seized

(International News Service)
TOLEDO, O., April 22.—A small power boat, containing 170 sacks of Canadian beer was captured in Lake Erie near here Monday by coast guards cutter, CG-9074, under the command of Lieutenant Thomas Daly. The small rum boat, apparently unable to propel under its own power, was being towed by a larger boat, when it was sighted by the coast-guardsmen, according to Lieutenant Daly. After a short chase through a dense fog, the smaller boat was left behind by the towing craft and the rum runners escaped.

The contraband liquor was being delivered to a local bootleg ring, it is believed.

Yes! THE NEW Refrigerator
... by WESTINGHOUSE

ALONE HAS ALL THREE OF THESE REFINEMENTS

Product of the great
Westinghouse laboratories

Westinghouse REFRIGERATOR

GLEAMING white... with glints of satin-finish hardware against the sheen of its porcelain or lacquer-on-steel... rich... beautiful in its simplicity... the New Westinghouse Refrigerator.

It is the only refrigerator that has all the refinements that a modern machine must possess... Buffet-Top... Temperature-Selector... Broom-High Legs.

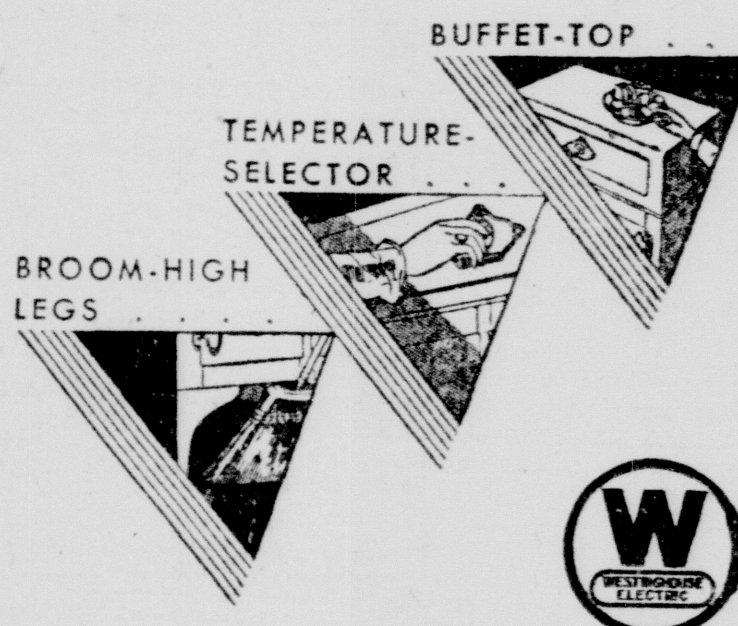

For twelve years the Westinghouse laboratories studied household refrigeration... experimented with freezing mechanisms. At last they developed one that suited them in every way... that answered every requirement.

They had demanded of themselves a refrigerator unit that was smaller... lighter... more efficient and economical... faster in freezing. And they created it in the end. When you see it, you will marvel at its compactness.

It is this improved freezing mechanism that makes possible the Buffet-Top, that is such a joy when you are taking things out or putting them away... the Broom-High Legs, that facilitate cleaning... the rugged Temperature-Selector with its sensitive control of freezing speed.

Every detail of the new Westinghouse Refrigerator discloses an advance in construction and design. You must see it, whether or not you are thinking of immediate purchase, for it is certain to become the standard by which judgment will be made.

Models are now on display.

Secretary Stimson Addresses Press Meeting Via Radio From London

Says London Conference Has Demonstrated Power Of Diplomacy Over War

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Naval agreement reached at London has done more to demonstrate that diplomacy can take the place of war than anything that has happened since the World War, because of it an affirmative plan for the promotion of good relations, Secretary of State Stimson in a radio speech from London, told the Associated Press at its annual meeting in New York Monday.

"Merely negative opposition to war is not sufficient," Stimson said. "Progress in civilization comes only from the affirmative habits of good will."

"The success of the London Naval Conference, is necessarily related to the success of the Kellogg (anti-war) pact. The good relations of that pact cannot stand alone."

"There are but two roads to travel," he said. "One is the road of competitive armament and this, whether accompanied or unaccompanied by good intentions, will lead to war. The other is the way of limitation with its constant effort to forestall war by creating such confidence and friendliness between nations as will prevent the seeds of war from growing."

Two Separate Problems
He declared the conference was confronted with two separate naval problems, one of the relations between the Navies of Great Britain, Japan and the United States, and the other the relations between the Navies of Great Britain, France and Italy.

"The first of these has been solved," he said. "This is a great achievement in itself and fruitful of great benefit to the general conditions of the world for the future. Furthermore America's isolated and advantageous position and the national security which this position affords imposes upon us the duty to lead in the limitation of armaments and to refrain from criticizing others less fortunately placed."

"In the second of these problems valuable discussions have been had and the underlying questions upon which a final solution must rest have been explored and clarified. The discussion has not merely involved a negotiation about the size of navies or the types of ships. It has been a study and debate concerning the political questions which govern the relations of these three nations of Europe to each other. Into these political questions it has not been America's business to enter. But sitting on the sidelines it has been quite evident that the result of the conference has been to clarify issues and make their solution in the future more possible."

Governor Green To Seek Senatorship

(International News Service) LANSING, Mich., April 22.—Political circles buzzed with excitement Monday following Gov. Fred W. Green's announcement that no one was authorized to say he will not be a candidate for the United States senate. Several men interpreted his statement as intimating Green would be a candidate for the Republican nomination to the senate at the September primaries.

Gov. Green's declaration followed a conversation with John S. Haggerty and Elvert H. Fowler, president of the Michigan Republican club. The governor commented on the "pugnacious attitude" of Senator James Couzens.

"When anyone is so anxious for a fight as Senator Couzens appeared to be somebody ought to accommodate him," Gov. Green said.

Rivers-Harbors Bill Approved

Rev. C. S. Joshua Receives Letter From Antarctic

Paul Siple, The Boy Scout Chosen To Accompany Com. Byrd Writes To Local Man

Rev. C. S. Joshua, pastor of the Croton avenue Methodist Episcopal church of this city, is in receipt of an interesting letter day from Paul A. Siple, the leading Boy Scout of America, who was chosen to accompany Commander Byrd on his expedition to the South pole.

Paul is a member of the First Methodist church of Erie, of which church Rev. Joshua was pastor for some time and Rev. Joshua says "they do not make them any finer than Paul Siple."

The letter was mailed on August 29, 1929 and follows:

Dear Rev. Joshua and Family: I wish to thank you for the message you sent me. I enjoyed it a lot. Please accept my "Warm Greetings from a Cold" Country.

We are living on the ice barrier at the Bay of Whales in the most southerly American village in the world, "Little America," Antarctica.

Give my best to the children and your wife and please thank the Sunday school for the message they sent through you.

Yours sincerely, Paul A. Siple.

Rev. Joshua had sent a message to Paul Siple through KDKA last August and this letter is an acknowledgment of it.

Man With Hoe Says

Get all hardy annual seed into the ground. Nothing will be gained by delay. Hold tender annuals until later in the season.

Sow radishes, lettuce, spinach and beets for the second crop. You can also chance a planting of wrinkled peas to follow the smooth seeded ones, earliest of all to go in.

Try some of the heat resistant spinaches this year.

Get tender vegetables such as peppers, eggplants and tomatoes going if you have neglected it. Set plants into cold frames in pots or flats to harden up for transplanting.

Give all seedlings air on days when the temperature will permit but cover them or take them in before the air chills in the evening.

You can always sow grass seed. If there are any thin spots give them a seeding. Sprinkle good commercial fertilizer at the same time.

Keep a watch for the first appearance of pests and it will do no harm to start spraying the currant bushes with a nicotine solution as soon as the buds begin to unfold. Currants are favorite breeding places for plant lice.

A little saw of the hacksaw type is an excellent tool for dividing dahlias any way you want them without bruising or breaking the roots.

You can set out an asparagus bed, a row of rhubarb, or chives at any time now.

You can't start putting on fertilizer too early once the frost is out of the ground. Give the vegetables and flowering plants a flying start.

Give the asparagus bed a dressing of salt, nitrate or manure. You can start setting out pansy plants from the frames.

Plant the tender annuals in the cold frame now. By the time the seed is well out of the ground they will be safe enough with the glass protection.

Nasturtiums, centaureas or cornflowers, annual larkspurs, poppies are best planted where you want them to grow. Thin them and save transplanting.

Get in a row of early turnips. They won't mind a few cool days.

Sprinkle ashes from your bonfires on the garden. They are good fertilizer. Don't waste them. Save wood ashes from the grates for the same purpose.

Turn over a new leaf and get perennials started early this year.

The killing of that Detroit cabaret owner "because he knew too much" seems somewhat to substantiate that theory that we are becoming over educated.—The Ann Arbor Daily News.

Vets First To Sponsor National Sale Of Poppies

Introduced First Time On Nationwide Scale In 1922 By V. F. W. Posts

First among veteran organizations to conduct a nationwide poppy sale and the first organization to adopt the policy of distributing poppies made exclusively by disabled ex-service men, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. makes no concessions to the contrary.

Although poppies made their appearance in a few scattered communities, they were introduced on a nationwide scale for the first time by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. in 1922.

When the public from coast to coast demonstrated its preference for the poppy as the appropriate memorial flower of the nation, attempts on the part of other organizations that year to abandon the poppy by popularizing other symbolic blossoms were "reluctantly" forgotten. The success of the V. F. W. distribution of poppies had convinced them that the little flower of Flanders Field origin could not be replaced.

In 1923, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. in cooperation with the U. S. Veteran's Bureau, established the first "Buddy Poppy Factory" manned completely by disabled ex-service men. This "factory" was located at Pittsburgh, Pa., and in the poppy sale of 1924, every poppy distributed by a V. F. W. post or auxiliary throughout the United States was made at Pittsburgh.

The following year, the plan, which was given the endorsement of General Frank T. Hines, Director of the U. S. Veteran's Bureau, was extended to Veterans Bureau hospitals throughout the country. Since then, V. F. W. poppies have been assembled in this manner.

National Anthem Bill Introduced

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Star Spangled Banner would be officially designated as the national anthem under a bill passed by the house Monday.

The song was written by Francis Scott Key while a British captive off

Fort McHenry, Md., and during a British bombardment of the fort. In 1916 it was promulgated as the national anthem in both army and navy regulations.

Eczema in Blisters on Child's Head and Face. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out on my daughter's head and face in small blisters. When the blisters broke water came from them and sore eruptions formed. The itching and burning were so severe that she used to scratch until the eruptions would bleed. She used to cry and was very restless, and I had to walk the floor night after night with her. Hoover Vetoes Coinage Bill

President Refuses To Sign
Bill Commemorating
Gadsden Purchase In Coins

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover Monday vetoed a house bill which would have authorized the coining of 10,000 silver fifty cent pieces in commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the Gadsden purchase. In a special message of rejection to the house of representatives, Mr. Hoover pointed out that in the past ten years, fifteen such special coins to an aggregate of over 13,000,000 pieces have been authorized, with five additional bills still pending for such coinage. He said, in his opinion, the growing practice of issuing commemorative coins was running contrary to the principles upon which the monetary systems of the country were established, and made counterfeiting easier because of the variegated designs printed on the coins.

First Outright Veto
This was President Hoover's first outright veto of a bill passed by the 71st Congress. The President subjected a minor bridge bill to a pocket veto during the Christmas holidays, but on that occasion sent no message.

The President pointed out that Congress itself had recognized the soundness of the principle of limiting the number of designs to be used in coming American silver by providing that "no change in the design or die of any coin shall be made oftener than once in 25 years from the year of first adoption."

"The growing practice of issuing commemorative coins incidentally to be sold at a profit and provide funds for projects for celebrations, appears to me to run counter to this principle and by their multiplicity to have become a misuse of our coinage system," the President wrote "these coins do not serve for circulating medium which is the real function of coins."

They introduce an element of confusion and lack of uniformity. The danger of counterfeit coins being successfully passed is unquestionably increased by a multiplicity of designs, with which the public cannot become thoroughly familiar. Furthermore, the very premiums at which these coins are sold stimulate counterfeiting of them.

The President admitted there are many historical events which it is not only proper but desirable to commemorate in a suitable way, but he held the longer use of coins for such a purpose to be unwise. He suggested the government would be glad to assist such celebrations by striking off medals which have no coinage functions.

National Origin Quotas Bill Is Passed In Senate

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—The repeal of the present national origin quotas of the immigration law, which went into effect last July 1, was voted by the senate Monday in adopting the Frazier amendment to the Harris immigration bill.

The senate's action would restore old computation of immigration quotas, based on the 1890 census. The house, however, must accept the bill itself, along with the amendment, before it can become a law.

Ban Of Obscene Books Accepted

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—The ban on so-called obscene books adopted in the senate, permitting review by the courts on the question of obscenity, was accepted Monday by conferees of the two houses on the tariff bill.

The much debated debenture plan and the flexible provision were passed over by the conferees for later consideration.

BEAUTY DOCTORS OR REAL BEAUTY

Any Woman Who Desires Can Be Attractive When
Well

You need not envy other women their magnetic qualities. You may be attractive yourself if you desire to. There certainly is a way for any woman by which she can be both beautiful and attractive. It is not by buying beautifiers either. They may help in bringing out the good features, but these must be present before they can accomplish much. What constitutes real attractiveness in women is personal magnetism. Some of the ugliest featured women in the world have been the most popular.

The really beautiful woman is always magnetic. She alone possesses the clear skin, the bright eyes, the lissome body, that constitute real beauty. Women who are lethargic and heavy in their movements, whose skin lacks luster and whose eyes are dull, in a very large percentage of cases are suffering from gastric troubles. Their bodies are failing to get the real values out of their food, and their organs are not throwing off the impurities from the blood. Instead of being active filters, removing the impurities from the blood, the kidneys are apt to be inflamed, and the stomach lacks tone. Why? Usually because our modern way of living makes for a sluggish congestion in the mucous membrane that lines the digestive tract, the lungs, and most of the rest of the body. That congestion slows up the bodily processes. A sore stomach cannot digest food well, and the blood must suffer. Sore kidneys and clogged skin cannot take off the bodily wastes, and the blood is not purified. Add to this the constipation that frequently follows, and a woman's attractiveness will be reduced to a very low power.

These conditions are usually evidences of catarrh. Remove this catarrh, wherever it is located, by a systematic treatment, and thus give the blood a chance to enrich every part of the body. Then the beauty will appear. The secret of the attractiveness of many women right in this community is found in the clearing up of the system through the use of World's Tonic. Its value in catarrhal conditions is proved by the testimony of thousands. When you are really well, you will always be attractive. Use World's Tonic to make you healthy and beautiful. It can be obtained of Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley's, Smith's or of any other first class druggist. (A-40) labor, because of his upholding the so-called "Yellow Dog" contracts in the West Virginia mine regions, and from Negro Associations, because of a statement attributed to him ten years ago while a candidate for the governorship of North Carolina, that he would rather be defeated than elected by a single Negro vote. Of the two, the Negro opposition has proved by far the most formidable, strange as that may seem.

The vote in the judiciary committee to reject his nomination was illuminating.

Negro Influence Felt

The votes of three senators—Robinson of Indiana, Deenen of Illinois and Steiwer of Oregon, all Republicans—accomplished the result. Both Indiana and Illinois have large Negro populations. And the Negroes vote in those states. Not infrequently their votes have spelled the difference between Republican victory and defeat. In Oregon, the labor vote is powerful. Neither Robinson, Deenen nor Steiwer can by any stretch of imagination, be called insurgents. They are the most regular of regulars. Yet it was their votes that turned the scales against Judge Parker in the committee, and it will be regular Republican votes in the senate that will confirm their judgment if and when the nomination is allowed to go to the final test.

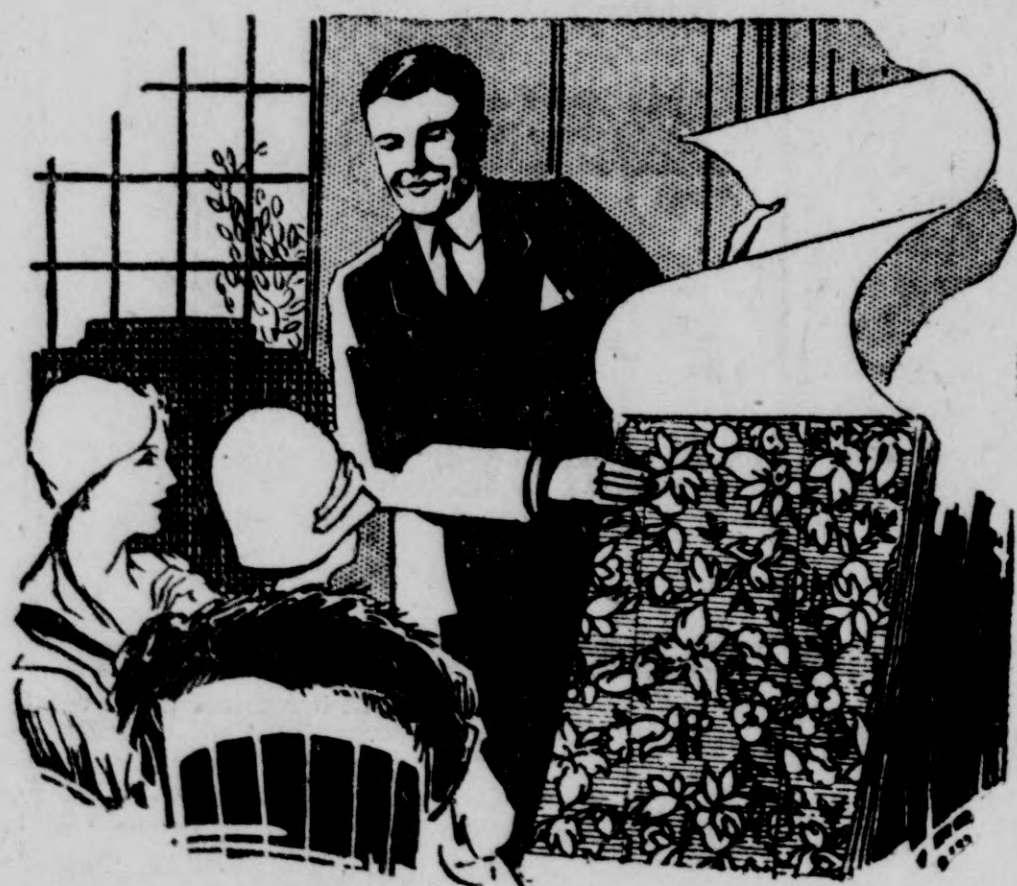

Incidentally, the regular Republicans in the senate are setting with indignation against the White House because of the position in which they have been placed—and this campaign year, too.

The Democrats are mostly opposed to Judge Parker because he is a "Southern Republican," the Progressive-Insurgents from the west like Norris and La Follette are opposed to him because of his labor record; and with the Republican regulars also opposed because of the political exigencies, it does not seem possible, barring miracles, that Judge Parker can be confirmed.

"Washington will be surprised if there is not a withdrawal of the name within a short time.

NEW CASTLE IS KEY POINT IN NEW B. & O. TRUNK LINE

in the entire United States, it is believed, because New Castle will be the key city to this vast system.

Following the close of the World war, the government found that there were far too many railroad systems in the country, to be convenient. In transporting goods and troops from the inland to the coast there were too many delays experienced in switching from one system of tracks to another. Delays proved costly when time was such an important factor and a study was made of how these different railroads could be grouped into trunk line systems, stretching from strategic inland centers to the coast.

After a number of years of study, the Interstate Commerce Commission in December, 1929, decreed that five trunk lines should be formed to the Atlantic coast. These were direct systems which had been in existence for a number of years, and several others which had outlets to the coast, but over routes which were out of the way.

The Pennsylvania and New York Central lines already had short routes between Chicago, the lake cities, and Atlantic coast towns. The B. & O. system operated into Baltimore and Philadelphia, thence over connecting lines to New York, but their route was cumbersome.

Apparently Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O., has outsmarted a good many of his competitors by acquiring control of the B. R. & P. system, to form part of a new connecting link across Pennsylvania from New Castle to New York.

This new proposed system will shorten the distance between Chicago and New York by something like 85 miles, and New Castle is the terminal key to the great new system, for here will be located the main transfer point between the middle west and the east, making it one of the most important railroad centers of the nation.

To establish this new trunk line, the Baltimore & Ohio proposes to take over several other existing smaller lines. The one, the B. R. & P., has already been acquired. That portion of the B. R. & P. extending from New Castle to DuBois is the western Pennsylvania link in this great new system.

The Baltimore & Ohio is also acquiring control of the Buffalo & Susquehanna, which has its southern terminal at DuBois and runs northward into New York state. Wellsville and Addison, N. Y. A section of this road would be used between DuBois and Sinnamahoning. Between Sinnamahoning and Williamsport on the west branch of the Susquehanna river, there is a gap of 72 miles, which is planned to bridge by procuring trackage rights over the Philadelphia & Erie division of the Pennsylvania railroad, or by the construction of a new road on the south bank of the Susquehanna at an estimated cost of $17,000,000.

From Williamsport eastward to New York City it is the plan of the B. & O. to obtain control of the Reading railroad and also the Central railroad of New Jersey, which the Reading now controls.

This new trunk line route will provide not only the shortest route between New York and Chicago, via New Castle, but will also have lower grades than any of the present trunk lines with the exception of the New York Central, which operates through the central part of New York state.

The B. & O. now controls the B. R. & P. and the Buffalo & Susquehanna. Its next move will be to gain control of the Reading, which in turn owns 52 per cent of the Central of New Jersey stock. These plans are expected to be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission in May, although there is considerable opposition to the move on the part of President L. F. Loree of the Delaware & Hudson, who sought to construct an entirely new route across Pennsylvania. His plans were rejected by the Interstate Commerce Commission because they entailed an expenditure of too much money. They felt that such a system could be constructed by consolidating present groups without building new lines at such an immense cost.

Approval of the acquisition of the B. R. & P. and Buffalo & Susquehanna by the B. & O. was given by the I. C. C. over the protests of Loree, so there seems little question but that the commission will also approve the control of the Reading and Central of New Jersey by the B. & O.

President Willard predicts that this new road will be one of the heaviest freight carrying roads in the east. It will enable the B. & O. to divert all its heavy freight shipments from the middle west away from the congested Pittsburgh area and get them into New York free from traffic tie-ups in Baltimore and Philadelphia.

This freight will be diverted at New Castle, the present junction point of the Baltimore & Ohio and B. R. & P. From New Castle it will be routed straight through to New York City, via DuBois, Williamsport, Tamaqua and Easton.

NAVAL TREATY IS Signed TODAY AS CONFERENCE ENDS

powers grouped themselves around a crimson-covered horseshoe table, and of all those who participated in the brilliant opening three months ago only Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy and Premier Andre Tardieu of France were absent.

Opening the session in his capacity of president and chairman, Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald announced without dissent that he was assuming responsibility for transmitting to the League of Nations secretariat the results of the London work on methods of armament limitations which were not incorporated in the treaty itself.

At the same time he announced that the 1931 conference provided for by the Washington conference would not now be held, because of the fact the London treaty had anticipated its work.

Premier MacDonald then announced that the heads of the various delegations decided the parity henceforth should be known officially as "The London Naval Conference of 1930," and the treaty as "The London Naval Treaty of 1930."

Short of Desires

"We have now gone as far as we can at present," MacDonald declared "compared with Washington and Geneva we have progressed far. Compared with our desires we have fallen short."

Premier MacDonald's opening address was followed by speeches by the other chief delegates. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson spoke for the United States, foreign minister Aristide Briand for France, Admiral Sirriana for Italy and ex-Premier Rikuzo Wakatsuki for Japan. Each of the British colonial delegates also delivered addresses.

All expressed gratification over the successful conclusion of the Tripartite Treaty, and Briand and Sirriana seemed hopeful that the near future would enable them to compose their difference sufficiently so that the agreement could be revised into a full five-power pact.

When the speeches were all completed and translated for the benefit of the delegates, the 10 new newspapermen assembled in the drawing room the actual signing of the treaty took place.

Ancient Equipment

In the center of the horse-shoe table lay a bound copy of the treaty, flanked on either side by two huge antique Queen Anne inkwells and quill pens of the same period. These ancient writing instruments were the only touches of theatricalism in an otherwise simple and business-like ceremony.

Secretary Stimson was the first to sign the treaty. He rose from his chair and walked quickly to the spot where the pact lay. Without hesitation, he signed his name with a flourish.

The other American delegates followed him. First came ambassador Dawes, then Secretary Adams, Senator Robinson, Senator Reed, Ambassador Gibson and Ambassador Morrow. When all the Americans had signed, Premier Briand stepped forward and inscribed his name in behalf of France.

Briand's colleagues followed in alphabetical order, the next came the British representatives, headed by Premier MacDonald. Admiral Sirriana signed for Italy, and ex-Premier Wakatsuki of Japan completed the list.

The signing was concluded at 12:54 p. m. (6:54 a. m. Eastern standard time.) The process had taken just fourteen minutes.

Sessions Adjourned
LONDON, April 22—With the signatures of five nations' delegates attached to the Naval Treaty the five powers London conference adjourned indefinitely at 1:18 p. m. today (7:18 a. m. Eastern standard time). The final session of the parley had lasted a little less than three hours. Most of this time was taken up with speeches by the chief delegates. The actual signing took only fourteen minutes.

TUSH!

"Jimmy," said a mother to her quick-tempered small boy, "you must not grow angry and say naughty things. You should always give a soft answer."

When his little brother provoked him an hour afterward, Jimmy clenched his little fist and said, "Much."—The New Guide.

Bradford Hops Off For Capitol On Mail Project

Local Airport Proprietor
Leaves This Afternoon
For Important Conference

HOPES TO LEARN DETAILS OF PLAN

Roy Bradford, local airport proprietor, hopped off in his plane early this afternoon for Washington, D. C., where he expects to confer with Congressman Swick, postal officials, Cliff Ball, proprietor of the Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail route, and Dr. Adams, inventor of a special pick-up device to enable planes to pick up mail without stopping.

He has already offered the use of his airport here and the facilities of his personnel, and is willing to assist in raising funds needed to finance the project, he has informed postal officials.

It is hoped that the installation of the pick-up device perfected by Dr. Adams can be installed at a nominal cost and that air mail service can be inaugurated shortly.

Full details of the project will be announced upon his return to New Castle tomorrow.

BIG FOOD CONCERN WILL ERECT NEW WAREHOUSE HERE

the structure is to be erected was not completed until yesterday, and preparations were made to start work of construction immediately.

The plans call for the erection of a two-story brick building, which will provide facilities for offices, storage rooms, refrigeration rooms, and a large garage. The structure will be 1-regular in shape, fronting 100 feet on Lawrence street, and extending back 83 feet at its deepest depth. 30 feet at the other end, with a rounding corner 24.8 feet long, with a 95 foot length in the rear. The building will be almost triangular in shape.

The New Castle Chamber of Commerce played an important part in securing this new industry for New Castle, and it was largely because of the determined efforts made by members of the new industries committee that they finally adopted New Castle as a location for this distributing warehouse.

Centre of District

Through their location here, they will be able to serve the surrounding territory in Western Pennsylvania as well as Eastern Ohio.

It is hoped to occupy the new structure sometime during the early part of the summer. Plans have been made for future expansion of their business in this territory, and additions will be built as rapidly as they are required.

Initially, the concern will employ 30 people and will operate 17 trucks out of New Castle, distributing food products to the surrounding territory. Standard Brands, Inc., is a national concern with a large capitalization and will be an important little industry for this locality.

Contract for the construction of the building here has been let to the New Castle Lumber and Construction company, who have made preparations to rush the building to completion as rapidly as possible.

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—The application of the Pennsylvania railroad for an injunction to prevent the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad from constructing a branch line from Pigeon Creek to Baird, Washington county, will be heard in Federal court here Friday.

Judge Victor B. Woolley of the United States circuit court of appeals, Judge W. H. S. Thomson and one of the other federal district court judges will hear the injunction. The complaint was filed three weeks ago.

The Pennsylvania railroad objects to a contemplated six mile branch of the P. & W. Va., to connect the Donora and Southern Railroad and the Connellsville extension, now under construction by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia. The new branch would share in traffic from the American Steel and Wire company at Monessen on which the Pennsylvania now has a monopoly.

Harvey McGoun Gives Some Impressions Of This City As It Was 75 Years Ago

It is intensely interesting to hear tales of New Castle as it was 75 years ago. During that time, New Castle has grown from a small town with a few thousand population to the city it is today.

But there are very few people who can remember this city as it was 75 years ago. And that is not a surprising fact.

There is, however, a well known man living at The Castle who was born in this city 84 years ago, has lived here ever since and has an excellent memory—Harvey E. McGoun.

Mr. McGoun was born here in 1846 and has seen many changes take place in this city and vicinity. One great change made during the past half century is in the school system, according to Mr. McGoun.

"The first time I went to school was at Tidball's private school. This was one of a very few. It was located in an upstairs room and it certainly was a lot different from the schools of today."

"I believe that Matina McElvenny is the only person living who went to Martin Gantz school when it first opened. William Travers was the first principal of that school. Martin Gantz taught the sixth grade, the highest room. Mr. Gantz afterward married Miss Townsend, one of the teachers."

Then Mr. McGoun speaks of the difference in the churches.

"The Catholic church was a small country schoolhouse and was located on the west side. Think of what a splendid Catholic church there is now."

Then there was Henry Pearson's saw mill up the Neshannock, where Mr. McGoun, when a boy, and other young fellows delighted in diving into a foaming mass below the dam. Henry Pearson lived about one half mile from his saw mill.

And the old Crawford iron mill—an unfamiliar name to most New Castle people of today. This mill was "down the narrows" to Mahoningtown.

Time has made many changes to the public square, according to McGoun. There used to be a market on the center of the public square. William Becker, Henry Young, Adam Treser, Henry Wetlich and the Weitz brothers kept meat stalls in a two-story building. On the second floor of the building the burgers and councilmen had their offices.

About the only landmark on the Diamond which has weathered the storm of time is the old sycamore tree.

"I remember playing around that tree 75 years ago," remarks McGoun. "And it was considered an old tree then."

EVENING GOWNS FOR WARM SEASON ARE VERY SHOWY

By ALICE LANGLEIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 22.—Extreme elegance characterizes new evening gowns for spring and summer wear, foretelling luxurious nights of gala times. Fabulous quantities of silks and satins, precious furs and priceless embroidery go into the making of them.

Chanel is showing an organdie evening gown trimmed with 500 yards of narrow but very real Valenciennes lace. She also makes many all-over beaded frocks, every bead sewed on by hand and so close together that not even a pencil could be traced between. Worth crurists evening coats with a solid surface of jewel fabric and places scattered jewel designs on gowns of most precious fabrics.

Lelong is using gold and pastel colored lame of chiffon weight for a most luxurious evening gown with a series of diagonal bands making the upper portion, these bands merging into very flaring panels that form the skirt. A short-sleeved bolero jacket of the same material half hides a beautiful jeweled belt which passes underneath.

Pale gold and flesh-white lame draped in most graceful clinging lines is chosen for another elegant evening gown. A black sheath frock has many narrow flounces edged with crimson galon which holds them in position. Yellow fishnet tulle, fine tulle and sparkling paillettes combine to make another fascinating model which would change almost any woman into an emerald princess. Boleros are often entirely of colored crystal beads and tunics enriched with tubular bead embroideries.

TRAVELING MAN ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT KONJOLA

"Will Never Be Without This Great Medicine On My Trips", He Declares.

MR. JOSEPH H. LEE

"I suffered for years with a badly disordered stomach," said Mr. Joseph H. Lee, traveling salesman, 214 North Center street, Pottsville. My liver, too, was badly disordered and my system gradually became filled with poisons. I was subject to bilious attacks and headaches. Gas pains around my heart were terrible at times and my heart action was seriously affected. I had little or no appetite and was fast becoming run down and unable to do justice to my work.

"Never will I be without this wonderful medicine, Konjola, on my trips. It required but a few weeks for Konjola to banish every one of my health ailments. My stomach is strong and my appetite is excellent today. My liver functions as it should and I am free from bilious attacks and headaches. My nerves are steady and I sleep well at night. My entire system has been built up by this great compound and I am endorsing it wherever I go."

Konjola is not a "cure-all," there is no such thing. When taken for from six to eight weeks, this great medicine will produce amazing results. The countless thousands of endorsements of Konjola have proven that it makes good in even the most stubborn cases.

Konjola is sold by Love and Megown, the Druggists, 204 E. Washington St., this city.

LOCOMOTIVE GRATES IN HOME FURNACE

Lennox Torrid Zone Has Many Features Besides Steel-riveted, Gas-tight Construction

The most durable type of grates in the world are used in the Torrid Zone Warm Air Furnace. They are of the special rocking design as used in locomotives and are controlled from the outside by a long-handled "lazy" shaker. Hardly more effort is required to shake them than is used in brushing the teeth. Any woman can do it—and she could do it in a party dress without fear of dust or dirt because of the unusually tight-fitting doors.

The Torrid Zone is the ideal furnace for the fine residence and is made in types and sizes for homes of every class and for schools, churches, stores and office buildings. There are combination hot water and warm air types and others equipped with electric blowers for large scale operating. They are made for hard or soft coal, coke, lignite, wood, gas or oil—and they'll save money for you in the burning of any one of them. Made by the Lennox Furnace Company, Syracuse, N. Finds Fewer Cows Kept In Mercer

Census Just Taken By State Veterinarian Shows Animal Population Dwindling

MERCER, Pa., April 22.—That cows are rapidly passing out of community life is evident from the cow census of Mercer just taken by Dr. H. A. Miller of the state Bureau of Animal Husbandry who is in charge of 20 veterinarians conducting a tuberculosis test in the county.

The animals total just 28 almost a cut in half of the total three years ago when this test was taken.

Along with this news is the additional information furnished by Censustaker A. L. Myers for the borough that with the two-thirds canvassed he is assured that the population will be about that of the 1920 figure with very slight fluctuation either way.

GET SACRAMENTAL WINE
Simon Pelican of Sharon captured by police the evening of Good Friday with two quarts of wine in his possession can think faster on his feet than any bootlegger of record in the county.

Pelican was highly indignant when arrested for transporting alleging that the wine was for sacramental purposes and that he was on his way to church when taken.

MANY FLOWERS IN BLOOM
Florists say that many years have passed into history since we had an Easter with as many flowers in bloom as that of 1930.

They have no difficulty remembering the fact they say because the fact militated against their sales for the holiday.

RESURFACE ROAD
The Mercer-Grove City road is being re-surfaced for the six miles from this borough to the concrete at Chestnut Corners.

All the macadam roads in the county will be given a new coating of tar and cobbled limestone.

MANY DOMESTIC CASES
District Attorney Leo McKay will have one of the largest marital relations court in county history if the cases for the April term plus those continued are all heard on Friday when these actions are called.

The unlucky number of 13 totals the term actions. The continuances should bring the total to twenty.

PROBES CHICKEN THEFT
Trooper Harris of the state police is investigating today the theft of ten chickens from the Karl Tait farm in Findlay township.

The raid is the second made by chicken thieves within a week, the previous theft being in Deer Creek township.

There are no well defined clues to either theft. Police are of the opinion that the thefts are the work of an organized gang that has been working in the county for some time.

CHICKENPOX RAMPANT
Fifty-four additional cases of communicable disease are reported for the week ending today at the health bureau. The same report shows 41 released from quarantine.

The scourge of the week is chicken-pox with 22 out of 23 cases in the city of Sharon; 19 cases of mumps with a division over the county; the same is true of 10 cases of measles; 1 case of

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict In Girl's Death

Finds Death Of Anna Jean McIlwain Was Due To Unavoidable Accident

STRUCK BY AUTO OF A. D. MAJORS

Child Ran Around Front Of Bus When It Stopped At Ellport, Is Testimony

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., April 22.—That the death of Anna Jean McIlwain, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIlwain, of Ellport, was due to an unavoidable accident, was the verdict of a jury empaneled by Coroner J. P. Caldwell, following an inquest held at the city building last night.

Coroner Caldwell was assisted in conducting the inquest by District Attorney John Powers. The testimony showed that Anna Jean McIlwain was returning home on a bus from Ellwood City in company with her mother and her grandmother. When the bus stopped at the right hand side of the road at Ellport, little Jean was the first person off. Her mother called to her as she got off the bus, but in her excitement to get home she apparently did not hear the call.

Alighting from the bus she immediately ran around the front end and started to go across the street to her home, which was opposite where the bus had stopped. The distance between the left hand side of the bus and the opposite side of the concrete was about eight feet. The little girl had reached a point within about one foot of the edge of the concrete when she was struck by the car of Arthur D. Majors, of Wurttemberg. She was knocked to the ground. Majors picked her up and rushed her to the Ellwood City hospital where she died from a fractured skull.

Testimony of Ralph Stewart, driver of the bus was to the effect that he had no more than opened the door of the bus when the little girl jumped out and started across the front end. As she came in a line with the left side of the bus, two cars passed the bus going in the same direction as the bus was headed. In the opinion of Stewart, the first car was really past the bus before it came to a full stop, but the second car came opposite the bus just as the little girl came on a line with the left hand side. Anna hesitated a second as the car went past then started to run to the opposite side of the street. As she neared the left edge of the concrete she was struck by the Majors car. Stewart said that Majors was apparently not driving fast as the hind wheels of his car were opposite where the little girl was lying when the car came to a stop. In his effort to avoid striking the little girl Majors had driven his car into the ditch, so that it was the right hand fender that struck the little girl.

Galen Biddle, who was an occupant of the bus, substantiated the testimony of Stewart. He said the little girl was the first person off the bus and that she had run around to the front. Witness had seen the two cars pass, and had seen the little girl struck. He said that Majors had driven off the concrete in order to avoid striking the girl.

Arthur D. Majors, whose car struck the little girl testified that he was going home from work, and that there were two cars ahead of him. He estimated that the cars were about twenty feet apart. He said the bus stopped but did not see any passengers get off. As the bus stopped the car in the lead ahead passed it as did the second car. Witness said that he slowed down his car to around twelve miles per hour, and when he was about seven or eight feet from the front end of the bus the little girl ran out from in front of it. He swerved his car to avoid striking her but she was caught by the right hand fender. He said that the two left wheels of his car were off the concrete and that the right hand wheels were about a foot on the concrete when the little girl was struck.

Among the other witnesses examined were Dell Wright, Clarence Blair, Heron Kirk, H. J. Kettner and Charles McIlwain. Those who had seen the accident all agreed that Majors had struck the little girl when she was about one foot from the left hand edge of the concrete. They also agreed that Majors' car had been stopped when the hind wheels were about opposite where the little girl was lying. In view of the evidence the jury found that the accident was unavoidable.

One Hundred And Thirty-Five Attend Opening Banquet Of Civic Week In Ellwood City

ELLWOOD CITY, April 22.—One hundred and thirty-five business and professional men sat down to a sumptuous banquet Monday night in the dining room of the Trinity Lutheran church to officially launch Civic week in Ellwood City, the first community affair of its kind.

The tables were decorated with spring flowers and tapers, and the speaker of the evening was Alva Snell, manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. From his wealth of experience in chamber work, he presented many valuable ideas to the members, stating the aims and ideals of the large clubs should form a beacon for the smaller clubs to follow. Mr. Snell congratulated the local chamber on the activities for good work done in the community and for the betterment of civic relations. He made a plea for more members, and stressed the fact that strength in numbers was an important factor in any civic organization.

The fun of the evening was furnished by Joe Gould, a professional entertainer from Buffalo, who put the men into gales of laughter with his funny stunts and humorous songs.

Mrs. A. M. Stevenson of the First Presbyterian church, officiated in a suave manner as toastmaster and introduced the various numbers on the program. Between speeches and stunts the men sang lustily from the familiar song books, and thoroughly enjoyed the evening, which certainly opened Civic week in a most auspicious manner.

Treser Asks Public To Give Co-operation

Councilman Treser, department of city streets today asked the public, especially property-owners to cooperate with his department relative to culverts at driveways.

"There are culverts and pipes which are clogged with dirt. This forces a stream of water around into the road with a gully as the result. It is hard to prevent this except by co-operation," said Treser.

He asked persons who have this situation to "punch out" the holes so that the water which flows along the curbs and into the gutters can travel through the culverts and pipes. "If this is done the streets will show up better," said Treser.

Note to tough flappers: If you'll look carefully, you'll note that the boss men of the community haven't that kind of wives.

Open Campaign For Pinchot Here

Meeting Is Held On Monday
Evening At County
Court House

INFORMAL PROGRAM OF SPEECHES MADE

Gifford Pinchot's campaign for governor got under way formally in Lawrence County, Monday evening, April 21, when a meeting was held in the Lawrence County Court house. In spite of the inclement weather, approximately 100 were present and before adjournment it was decided that a similar meeting would again be held on Monday evening, April 22 with each of the crowd last night seeing that his neighbors got out.

There were no set speakers Monday evening, seven or eight extemporaneous addresses being given by men and women present. Illness in his home prevented the Pinchot chairman for this county, Attorney Chas. R. Davis from being present and in his place the secretary, C. L. McMillen acted.

The work of Mr. Pinchot as governor was extolled, his record as a conservationist, as chief forester for the governor, and his stand on the prohibition question lauded, and those who spoke declared themselves very much in favor of him for the next governor of Pennsylvania.

The following men and women spoke briefly: R. L. Wallace, J. Andley Book, J. Herbert McIlvenny, Mrs. Carl S. Hart, Miss Margaret Walker, Dr. Frederick Taylor, Charles McKeever, James Peebles, E. W. Loyd and Edward Davis.

It was announced that Gifford Pinchot would be in Lawrence County on May 3rd and would meet the citizens of New Castle in the City Building at about 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The officers of the Pinchot for Governor Committee follow: Chairman Attorney Charles R. Davis, vice chairman Charles F. Ball, vice chairman for Women's Division, Mrs. Carl S. Hart, secretary C. L. McMillen, assistant secretary, Attorney Gilbert Long, treasurer, A. Clyde Sheal.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A man who says that his first name is Duane, writes me that he honestly believes that all beautiful women are dumb and do not make good wives. All because he married a beauty who made him unhappy. Pretty girls shouldn't put store on their looks, he warns. And then:

"Five years ago I met and married the prettiest girl I had ever seen. We were married the two unhappiest years of my life. After we married and she had the chance to make a home, all she could think of were her complexion and her figure. It was laughable to see her retire at night fixed up so she would look beautiful next day. She wouldn't cook, as the heat made her complexion look awful, and she wouldn't think of washing dishes because it would spoil her beautiful hands."

"Really Miss Allard, I earned a good salary and it was all spent on powders, creams and other nonsensities. I think every woman should take care of herself but not to this extreme."

"I am now married to the sweetest girl in the world. I've heard people say Love is blind. The girl I married a year ago is just a plain quiet girl, and to some she isn't even good looking, but to me she's the beautiful thing in the world."

"The new wife is my pal, companion, home maker, all rolled into one. She is everything that the first wife never could have been. In the long run men pick mates who are capable of making a home out of a house. Most men when they marry want to settle down and have a real wife and a real home."

Noble words Duane. And the truth is I ever heard it. But you know it isn't true that women marry for that so very often. You know getting up early and going to work without the proper time to fix the hair and pluck the eye brows and daub the cream, and glaze the nails and what not, does wreck a girl's beauty and every woman wants to be beautiful. So very often it just comes to this. They sit down and think. Not so long, but they think, shall I marry and be a home maker, or shall I remain a beautiful thing that men love to look at, and maybe so on the stage or get a millionaire or—both. And it's not such a difficult decision if the girl is really pretty.

But if she doesn't make the grade—well, read the front pages. If you can think of anything more they could sue for, you tell 'em. I haven't the heart.

I've seen some beautiful and successful wives. Not so many. I've seen some women so plain that at first glance you wonder how on earth their big handsome husbands came to fall in love with them. You inquire and find that they have been married years and constantly become more devoted.

Beauty is a great gift but the plain girls can be adored and be the greatest wives in the world. Some of the best loved women in history wouldn't dare to have their pictures taken. They got painted, and you know what these painters do.

Fine Clothes Lead Girl To Morganza

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 22.—Clara Rider, in her 18 years of existence, never had pretty clothes. She had seen and envied the other girls as they came out in their new attire. Finally, when she got a job with Mrs. Morris Franks in Uniontown, she was quick to inspect the wardrobe of her employer.

Her eyes were opened as never before as she viewed the fine array of clothing. The temptation was too great for a girl in the circumstances of Clara to resist. She appropriated all of Mrs. Franks' best garments, lingerie and $12 and then disappeared. She, later, was arrested in Connellsville and, as her punishment, was sent to the reform school at Morganza, where a gingham dress will be her best attire.

The Way OF THE World By GROVE PATTERSON

THE DEATH PENALTY
One learns from the warden of Sing Sing prison that there are about 11,000 murderers in the United States each year. Fewer than 100 of the killers pay the death penalty. Apparently capital punishment hasn't much to do with murder. The criminal, not being normal, hasn't much interest in death penalties. And if he is interested and thoughtful he can readily figure out that his chances of going to the chair or the gallows are not great. The fact remains that long punishment is greater punishment than death.

A GOOD WILL COURT

The Community Church in New York of which John Hayes Holmes is pastor, has set up a good will court. Three judges will sit on cases. The verdicts will not have legal standing but many sad differences of opinion may be straightened out and many a sad heart made happier. The church bulletin says of the court:

"Psychologists and health experts generally recognize that many physical and social diseases spring from embittered personal relations. These become centres from which infection spreads through the whole spiritual nature. Any one who cherishes a grudge or a sense of injustice in his relations with others is breeding evils in his own life, and in the life of the community at large. He owes it to himself and it is one of his obligations as a citizen to have these difficulties cleared up as soon and as effectively as possible."

PICKING THE BUSHES

George F. Baker, New York banker, is one of the country's five richest men. Perhaps his wealth is surpassed by only Rockefeller, Ford, Mellon. Baker earned his first money as a boy picking cranberries after other pickers had gone over the same bushes. Finding things that others overlooked has accounted for much of the wealth of the world.

If you really expect to put over something big in the world, don't pass a thing up because somebody else has tried it. Perhaps that means nothing.

GOLFIST

Westchester county, New York, boasts of 60 golf courses. Cook county, Illinois, has 75. There is no limit to the distance man will go in his search for contests. He'll even boast of the number of golf courses his country has. Much better to boast of the number of libraries and school houses.

Road House Keepers Lodged In Jail

BUTLER, Pa., April 22.—Samuel Miller and William McAfee, proprietors of the Green Manor Inn on the Saxonburg road, about five miles south of Butler, are in the county jail under charges of operating a disorderly house and violating the liquor law.

Sixteen other men, arrested by county officers and State police, were released from jail today after they had posted forfeits of $15 each with Alderman Carl G. Phillips. Two women questioned by police at the time of the raid convinced the officers that they were employed as housekeepers.

D. U. V. Will Have Playlet

The members and friends of the Daughters of Union Veterans will be entertained this evening in their hall in the city building by a playlet, to be presented by the choir of the Croton avenue Methodist church.

The Daughters will also serve a dinner Wednesday from 11 to 1 in the city building. The proceeds of both these affairs will go toward the G. A. R. encampment fund.

USED CAR VIEWS

From the number of new construction jobs on foot and pending at the present time, this is beginning to look like a big year for trucks.

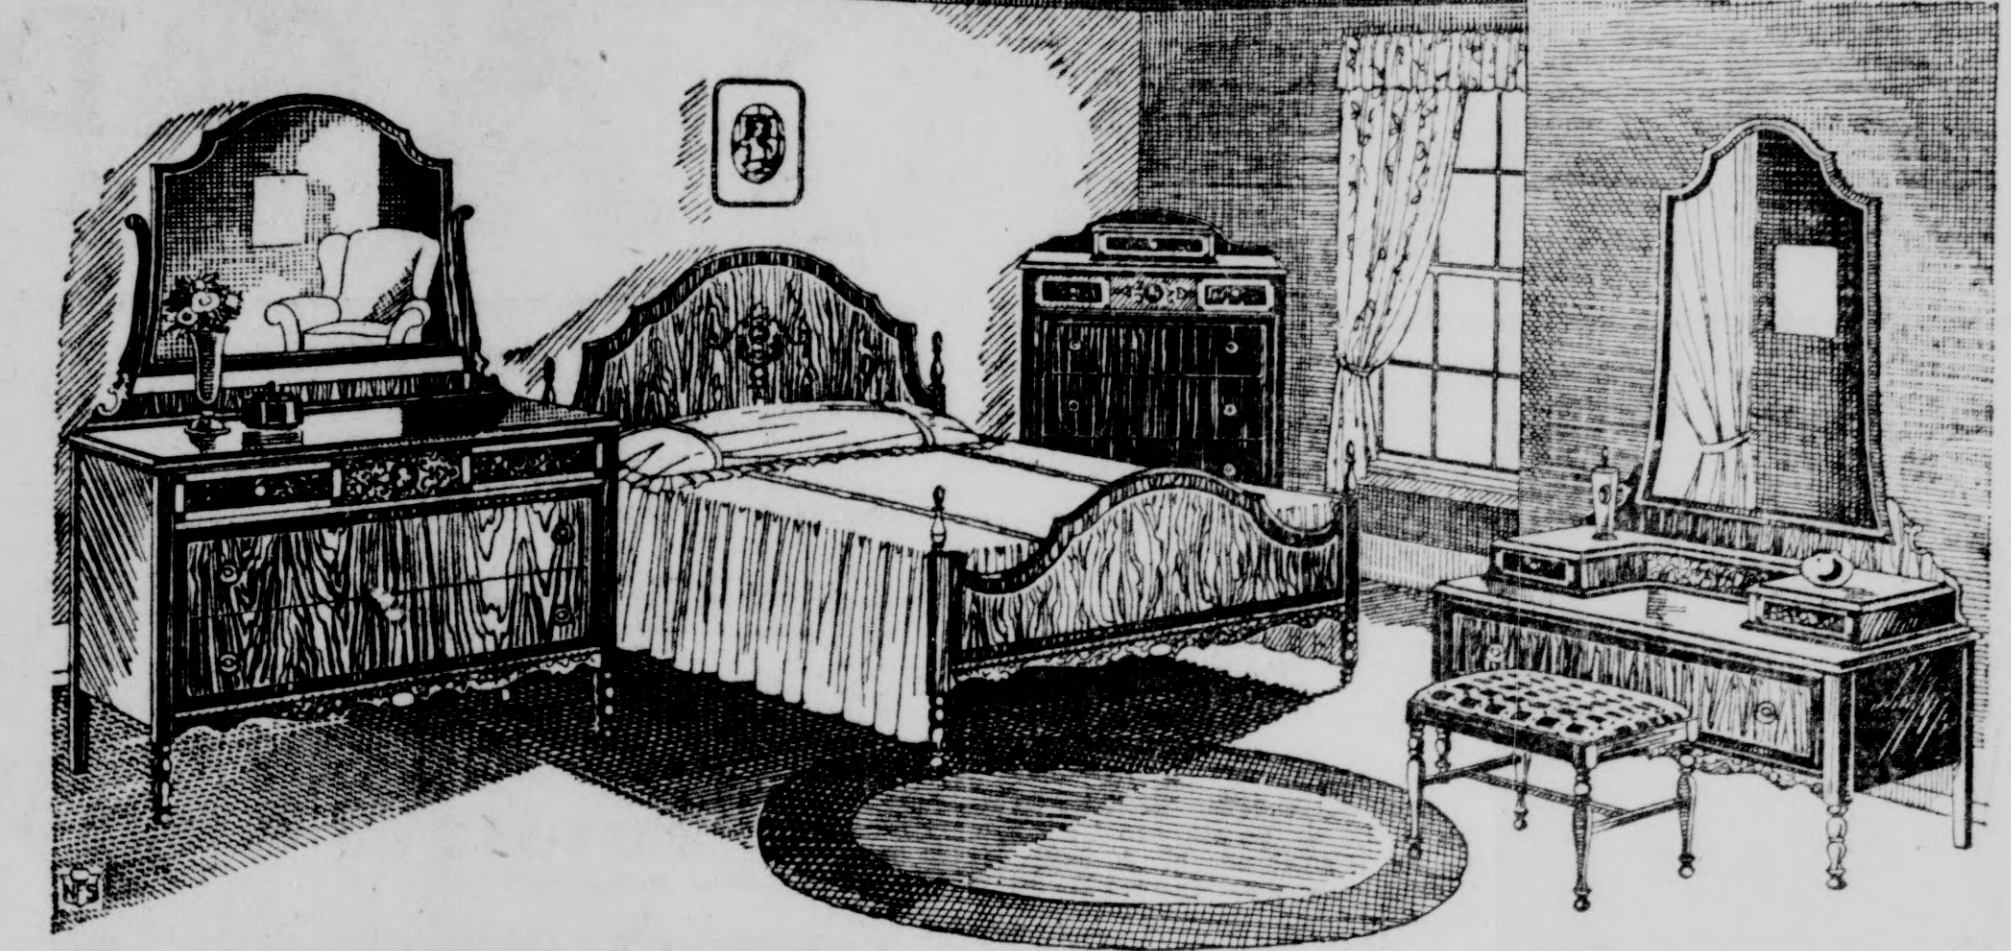

Now a good used truck will often get a job for a good man and make more money than an industrious partner.

Economical operation should be a prime consideration in the purchase of such a truck. Low cost and upkeep are essential if the work is to be profitable. There is a demand for at least 50 small, light trucks in this vicinity right now.

Shenango Motor Company has four good trucks that will fill this requirement nicely. They are priced at $75 to $250 and all are in remarkable condition. Any purchaser will be given complete information regarding place to get work with a truck.

Better come in right away before they're all gone. It pays to walk across the bridge!

Sheriff Wright Pleased With His Visit Here He Reports In Phoenix

Jack White, New Castle Boy, Sees Sheriff On Return To West

White Now In California For Brief Stay Enroute Back Home

San Francisco, April 19, Editor New Castle News, New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:— Before leaving Phoenix on my way to the coast last week I had the pleasure of talking with Sheriff Wright of Maricopa county, who was in New Castle recently in connection with the trials of Mrs. Schroeder and Glenn Dague.

The sheriff was quite pleased with New Castle and with the way in which their party was received there. The weather, he said, was about the only thing that bothered him and after a day or so he was used to that. Speaking in connection with the Maricopa county court house at Phoenix Wright said it was only natural that their building should surpass the one in New Castle because Phoenix is quite a young city and their court house is very new. The sheriff said that in an eastern city the old buildings were still used because of the great trouble of tearing them down to make way for others. He went on to say that already their own court house has become crowded and inadequate.

One thing in which the sheriff was particularly interested was the historical background of New Castle. He said it was quite a pleasure to him to visit some of the points of historic interest in New Castle and Lawrence county.

He mentioned that Joe Wells who was with Schroeder and Dague when they were captured near Phoenix was so go on trial this week for murder and he believed he would get the death penalty.

In this connection he mentioned that there had been a great deal of misunderstanding about the Wright who was shot by the trio in Arizona being his brother. As a matter of fact they are not related at all.

Sheriff Wright asked to be remembered to all his friends in New Castle and he sends his personal best wishes to them.

Los Angeles is a city of, by, and for the motion picture industry. Any where you go you are liable to see sets or find a company on location. When they want a street for their use in making a picture they get it and it is roped off for them.

At the present time there is a lot up in the actual picture taking but if you go to the studios you will see some of the huge sets they use in filming a picture. Only as much of a building as is seen in the picture is built. There are a great many theatres in L. A. and many of them are just like palaces. The most famous is probably Granman's Chinese theatre. As the name implies it is of Chinese architecture and filled with Oriental drapings and figures. The lobby is lined with wax figures some of them likenesses of famous movie stars. This is the theatre famous for its premiere showings of movies and often attended on opening night by many movie folk.

In the floor of the front court are traced the signatures of many movie actors and actresses along with their hand and footprints. Notable among them are Janet Gaynor, Doug Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge, Gloria Swanson and of course Bill Hart has left the print of his high heeled boots and his six shooter.

The Chinese is just one of the many beautiful theatres some of the others having art galleries and luxuriously draped and carpeted lobbies. L. A. is called the New York of the west and it is just that with the glare of the thousands of bright lights that reveal the great White Way and a hurry and a bustle that copies after Broadway.

San Francisco is a direct opposite. Here people are more inclined to be contented with things as they are. There is none of the speed and originality of L. A. but a more quiet and cordial feeling prevails.

At the present time Frisco is being attacked by the army planes in their maneuvers and hardly an hour passes but a flight of planes flies over in formation. Last night several bombers went overhead dropping flares and it certainly was a great sight.

It is also the twenty-fourth anniversary of the great earthquake and fire which destroyed San Francisco in 1906.

Chinatown is hardly the place of mystery that we see in shows and read about in novels but just a quiet foreign settlement with its Y. M. C. A., many churches and even a Masonic organization and Eastern Star. Furthermore the Chinese boys are right up to the minute in their yellow corduroy pants.

Despite its "unusual" weather California is a wonderful state. There are great forests and acres of fruit and vegetables. Along the coast oil is drilled from the bottom of the ocean. The fact that all its residents are boosters is its best advertisement.

From all this it would probably seem that I had either taken up real estate or lived here myself but California is only one of the many beautiful spots in our country. Washington with its great timber land and Colorado with its mountains are wonderful spots. Arizona with the desert and canyons has its line for many and I am one of them. Florida draws thousands every year and we who are from Pennsylvania find the Keystone

State a fine enough place for us but I can't yet discover what anyone sees in a state like Kansas (with apologies to "the nation's bread basket"). Yours truly,

JACK WHITE.

FIRST CHOICE ! — everywhere !

Never before in the history of the stove industry has a gas range been received with such enthusiasm and acclaim as the new 1930 White Star! White Star is first choice everywhere, in cooking schools as well as in homes. See it—compare it with other ranges you have seen and you, too, will be a White Star owner and booster!

"E-Z Kleen" Burner Box

No overhanging ledges. When grates are removed there isn't a single obstruction. The drip pan of beautiful sealed die work, is designed to catch any overflow from the cooking top. Can be cleaned with a few strokes of a cloth.

Grates—Full Floating Type

Special cast construction, designed to give the burners maximum efficiency by not having the prongs directly over the flame. Porcelain finished, with rounded prongs and wide open design. So easy to keep clean.

Patented "Even-Heat" Burner

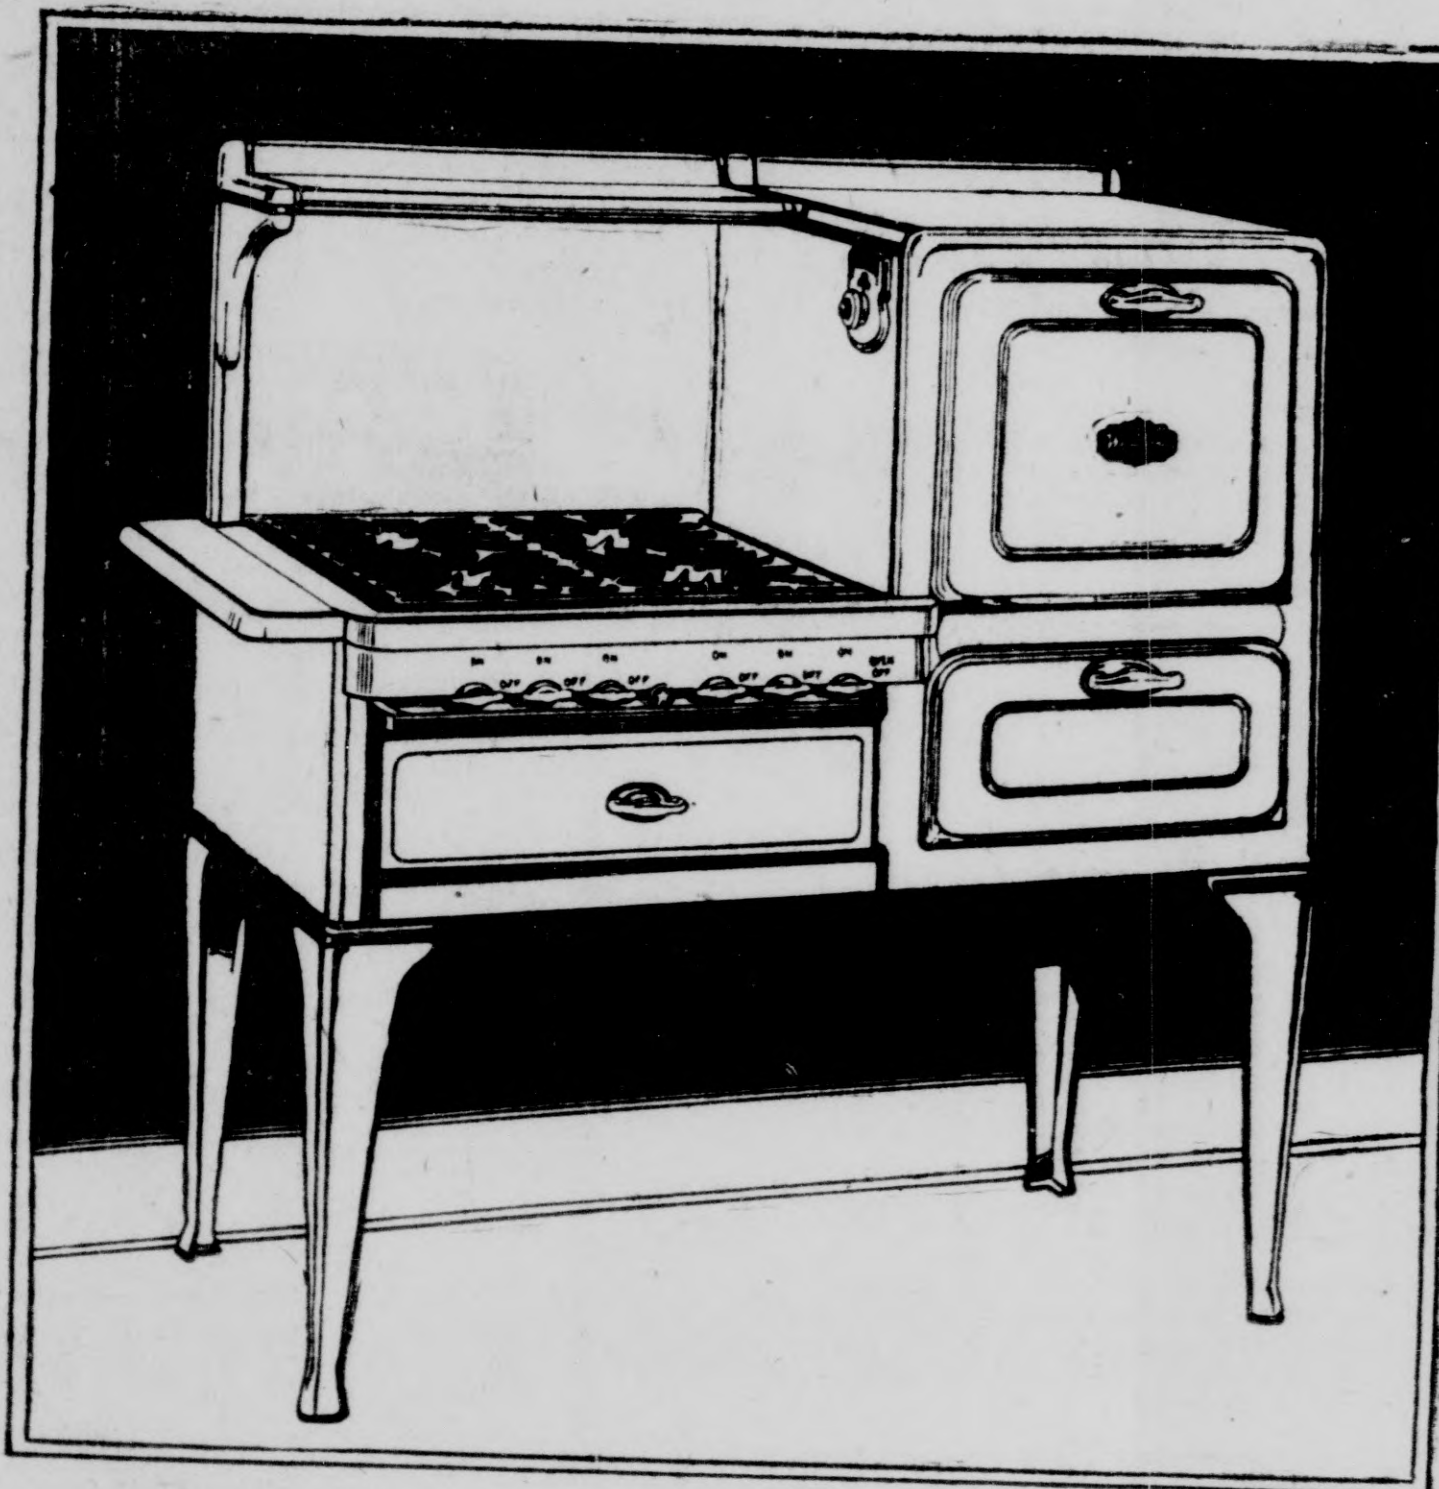

Scientifically constructed, embodies a radial feature of 14 circle principle. An even distribution of heat prevents center burning while cooking and frying—the heat is the same at all points. Intensive heat, evenly distributed, saves time and gas. Porcelain finish makes them easy to keep clean.

Radio Dial Heet-Master Oven Control

Operates like a radio dial. A simple and dependable thermostatic device which automatically controls the temperature of the oven. It will hold the heat at any desired degree for any period of time. Removes guesswork and insures baking success. Saves time and gas.

White Star GAS RANGES

INSULATED AND VENTILATED

THE WORLD'S CLEANEST GAS RANGE is going into the homes of many of our friends with a small down payment, as a special feature of Home Furnishing Month. Never before has an opportunity been presented whereby a range of this quality has been offered on such liberal terms.

ARMCO INGOT IRON is used in the construction of the ULTRA DE LUXE WHITE STAR. It is the purest iron manufactured in open hearth furnaces and will outlast steel and other metal. You can purchase a WHITE STAR gas range with complete assurance that no range is built of better material.

Approved By the American Gas Association

one of the greatest authorities on gas ranges in the world. Now you can purchase what is recognized as a master product by all who see it.

The famous WHITE STAR gas range will save you hours of labor, reduce your gas bills, and make baking and cooking a real pleasure.

WE WILL BE GLAD TO DEMONSTRATE the WHITE STAR gas range and explain its many patented and major improvements without obligating you in any way. Be sure to see this remarkable range this week, and take advantage of the small down payment and our liberal terms.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of American Industry
Petroleum (Part Two)—The First Oil Well, 1859

EXPERIMENTS MADE WITH PETROLEUM IN THE UNITED STATES DURING THE EARLY EIGHTEENTH CENTURY SHOWED THAT AS AN ILLUMINANT IT WAS FAR SUPERIOR TO TALLOW CANDLES AND WHALE OIL. AT THAT TIME PETROLEUM WAS OBTAINED ONLY BY SKIMMING SURFACE POOLS IN NORTHWEST PENNSYLVANIA. WHEN THE PUBLIC HAD BEGUN TO SHOW A PREFERENCE FOR PETROLEUM FOR LIGHTING, A NEW HAVEN COMPANY SENT AN EX-RAILWAY CONDUCTOR NAMED DRAKE TO TITUSVILLE, PA., TO TRY TO FIND OIL.

WITH A CRUDE OUTFIT, DRAKE BEGAN DRILLING FOR OIL NEAR TITUSVILLE IN WHAT WAS THEN A WILD, SPARSELY-SETTLED REGION OF SCATTERED LUMBER CAMPS AND SMALL FARMS. THE NEIGHBORING FARMERS LAUGHED AT DRAKE'S ATTEMPTS, BUT THEIR RIDICULE SOON CHANGED TO AMAZEMENT. FOR ON AUGUST 27, 1859, DRAKE AND HIS HELPERS STRUCK OIL.

WHEN THE REPORT SPREAD, PEOPLE FOR MILES AROUND CAME HOTFOOT TO SEE DRAKE'S WELL, WHICH WAS YIELDING TWENTY-FIVE BARRELS OF OIL A DAY, AND HAVING SEEN IT, HURRIED HOME TO BEGIN BORING WELLS ON THEIR OWN FARMS.

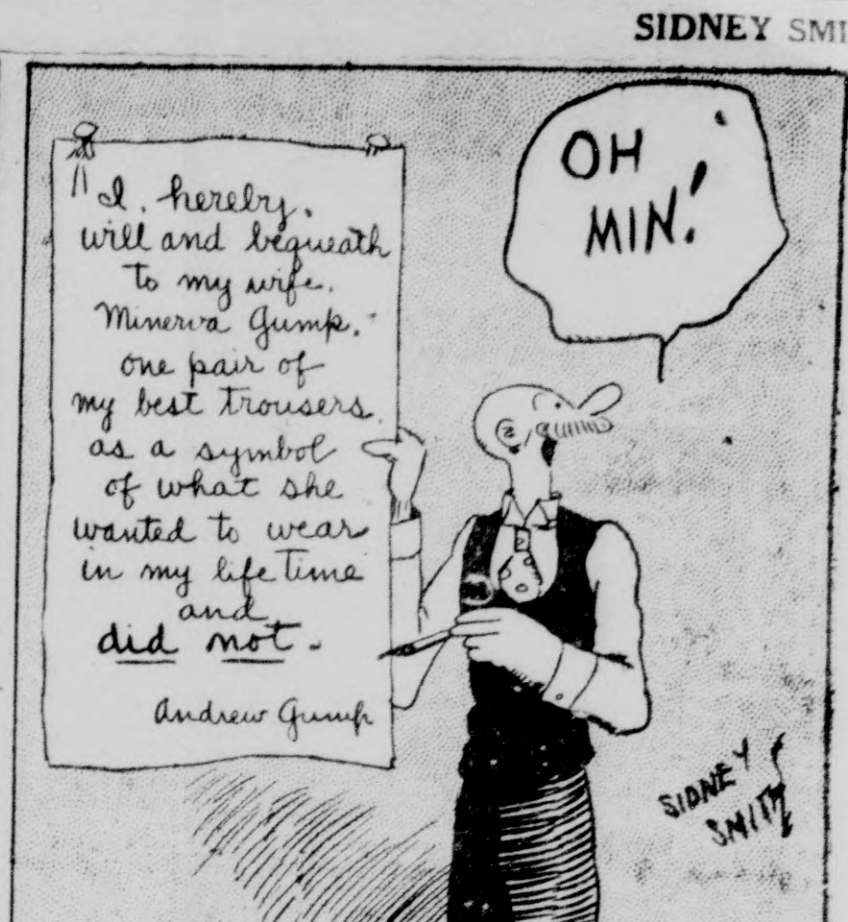

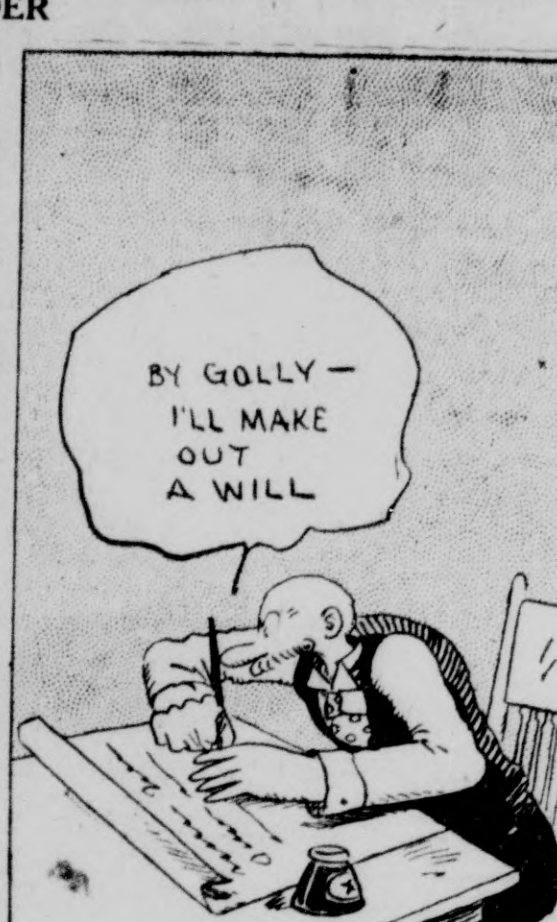

THE NEWS OF DRAKE'S DISCOVERY ATTRACTED THOUSANDS OF FORTUNE SEEKERS TO THE NEIGHBORHOOD, AND OIL CREEK VALLEY BECAME THE SCENE OF A SPECTACULAR BOOM, RIVALING THAT OF THE CALIFORNIA GOLD RUSH OF '49.

Ervin Brame Hurls Fine Game As Pirates Take 6 To 4 Victory In St. Louis

ADAM COMORSKY CRASHES HOMER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Apr. 22.—Jewel Ems hustled his Pittsburgh Pirates out of St. Louis early last night, and there was not a tear shed by any of the rabid followers of the Cardinals. The Pirates yesterday afternoon won from the Cardinals 6 to 4. Ervin Brame outlasted four Cardinal pitchers. Two errors by the Cards enabled the Pirates to gain the lead. Adam Comorsky smote a homer that aided the Pirates in their victory. The Polish coal miner getting his round-trip ticket in the second inning. Carmen Hill, former Pirate, essayed to stop the mad rush of his former mates but was greeted with a barrage of hits and was taken out in favor of Harold Haid. Haid pitched one inning and was taken out for a pinch hitter. Haines and Frankhouse finished the game for the Cards. Sparky Adams, late of the Pirates, was the feature batter with three singles. The Pirates won the series from the Cards two to nothing, two games were washed out by rain.

RITICISMS

The New York Giants favor pinche, the Yankees lean to budge while in St. Louis any kind of Cards will do.

Bucky Harris, Tiger manager, has received five radio sets as a gift. Maybe they're kidding Bucky that the only way he can get a world series is to tune in on it.

Judge Landis kept his coat while somebody else threw out the first ball at Chicago. This constitutes a new major league record.

Now that the Bambino is saving all his frogskins they're beginning to call him Bonnie Babe McRuth.

What keeps the diamond magnates biting their finger nails is that the sun and the baseball leagues never open their seasons the same day.

New York Giants Continue To Lead National League At 8 To 6 Victory

By COPELAND C. BURG, International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 22.—Those aroused New York Giants look mighty sweet. They romped home yesterday 8 to 6, in a terrific slugging matinee with the Phillies.

The world's champions Athletics dropped their initial game of the year to Washington, 6 to 3. Cronin hit Emke for a homer with one on in the fifth and clinched the win for the Senators.

The Robins finally shook the dust out of their wings and won a game. They tomahawked the unruly Braves 13 to 8.

Adam Comorsky contributed a home run as the Pirates won from the Cardinals 6 to 4.

With three homers by Wilson, Hartnett and Beck and 11 other hits the Cubs triumphed 9 to 1 over the Reds. They even did some heavy hitting in the White Sox-Browns game which the pale hose won 3 to 2. Willie Kamm big-berthed a Homer and Teddy Lyons, who pitched a beautiful game, got a three-bagger.

Cleveland won 6 to 1, over Detroit. Clinton Brown holding the Tigers to five safeties.

Fields-McLarnin Matched For Bout

Welterweights Will Belt It Out September 11 At New York City

Winner Will Ascend To Championship—Big Money Offered For Classy Go

By DAVIS J. WALSH, International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 22.—It would have been a pound of flesh if Shylock was arranging the match but, as it is, the details have fallen to Old Foster, a strict vegetarian, and so it is a mere ounce of boxing glove that has swung the $300,000 McLarnin-Fields championship fight to New York. Foster accepted a guarantee of $50,000 and the privilege of 20 per cent of the receipts from Madison Square Garden on behalf of McLarnin, while Chicago stood ready at one of the local ball parks on September 11.

The Garden's offer failed to match the terms of Dick Dunn, Detroit promoter, who brandished a guarantee of $55,000 and a percentage of 25 before McLarnin, while Chicago stood ready with a blanket proposal to top all rival offers. But all to no purpose.

The answer is that McLarnin is not going where the bigger money is offered but where the smaller boxing glove holds forth. They use the five-ounce glove in New York, whereas the six-ounce glove is the regulation accessory to legalized brawling in Detroit and Chicago and McLarnin figures that he can hit Fields more boisterously with five ounces than he can with six. Also the championship dispute is fifteen rounds here against ten in the rival cities and again this is presumed to be an aspect favorable to McLarnin's cause.

The idea is that McLarnin's figures he can hit Fields more times in fifteen rounds than he can in ten and, personally, I believe he can almost count on this.

Athletes Workout At Taggart Field

New Castle high school is showing progress with the 1936 football candidates who hold daily workouts at Taggart Field. On Monday afternoon the workout was light. Signal drills, and galloping constituted the workout.

Every boy in the squad is receiving a tryout so that Coach Bridenbaugh will know just what he has on hand for May 9 when the New Castle high school team plays Chaney High of Youngstown in a night football game at Taggart Field.

The coach is trying out different combinations daily. Regis McAuley, last year's signal barker was back at his old post at quarterback on Monday. Fred Fabian was used at

Herrera Defeats Culver On Points

Mexican Pummels Rugged Easterner But Fails To Put Him Away

THOMAS, TAYLOR FLICK WIN TILTS

Tony pitched and Steve caught. That's the answer to last night's fight between Tony Herrera, the graceful Mexican, and Steve Culver, Boston "iron man".

For 10 rounds the shifty, spectacular Mexican outboxed and outpunched Al Lippe's lightweight and took the decision by a nice margin.

Tony hurt his right hand in the sixth round and will probably be laid up for several months with a consequent loss of several thousand "berries".

Culver proved tough, durable and game and only on one or two occasions showed the effects of any of Tony's punches.

The best rounds for the Mexican were in the fourth when he cuffed Culver around and in the sixth he outboxed Steve when they slugged in the center of the ring.

Culver made the mistake of trying to box with Herrera in the forepart of the fight and when he tried to crowd Tony in the last few rounds couldn't catch up to him.

There is one thing Culver can point to and that is he is one of the lightweights who has been able to go the limit with Herrera.

Jaw of Iron.

He didn't last the limit because he held on and didn't want to fight but because he was so tough that Tony couldn't flatten him when he nailed him.

Herrera weighed 134½ and Culver 137½. Culver weighed 142 when he arrived and Herrera made him sweat off a few pounds which didn't help him any.

The semi-final between Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh, and Jackie Ward, Cleveland, was a humdinger for six rounds and it was a nifty fight.

Ward dropped Thomas in the first and Thomas dropped Ward in the second and they slugged in the third. As the fight progressed Thomas stepped inside of Ward's wild lunges and wound up with the decision. He made a nice hit with the fans.

The six-round slugging match between Frankie Frey, this city, and Jimmy Taylor, Cleveland, middleweights, was a tit-for-tat fight until near the end.

Frey Outfought.

Taylor won the award by his work in the last part of the fight but Frey won the plaudits for the gameness he displayed. It was his third fight.

Frankie was wobbly when he went to his corner in the fifth and in the sixth Taylor dropped him for nine with a right to the chin.

Frey took the count, was shoved down a second time and took another breathing spell of nine seconds.

He arose, gave a gladiatorial exhibition and came up fighting hard. He lost the decision but he won prestige for his showing.

After Jackie King had led for most of the fight, Eddie Flick hit him on the chin with a straight right in the second.

Down went Jackie and when he got up Flick rolled him twice more for counts and Referee Chip tolled 10 over him.

It was a good fight and after the battle Jackie asked he be given another chance at Flick. They are local boys and lightweights.

During the evening two former midweight champions of the world were in the ring.

Two Ex-Champions.

They were Frank Klaus and George Chip. Klaus won the title from George Carpenter in Paris and Chip took it from Klaus in Pittsburgh.

The fans gave them a great reception.

Hundreds of fans from all parts of eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania were present and watched Herrera carve a victory over Culver.

Larry Gent, Franklin, was the deputy commissioner in charge. Jones and Davies were the judges, Capitola the timekeeper and George Chip the third man.

Next Monday night Phil Tobias, the menace to flyweights, will tackle Tommy Palacio, flyweight champion of the Philippine Islands.

According to Herrera, the flyweight from the Philippines is one of the fastest boxers and greatest punchers in his class.

Speaking of baseball and Old Sol, Moron Mike is reminded that the sun shines alike on the just and the unjust.

Union Athletes Dine Wednesday

Second Annual Girls And Boys Basketball Banquet To Be Held Wednesday

Another of those enjoyable dinners is planned for the Union High school on the night of Wednesday, April 23, at 6:30 o'clock. The occasion is the "feeding" of the girls and boys varsity basketball teams. Judging from other affairs of its kind held at Union, the coming banquet is going to be a tremendous success.

The banquet is given by the Parent-Teachers Association of the school. The same fine menu that was served last year will be repeated with the exception of a change in the salad and desert. Mrs. Wilkins is chairman of the banquet committee and promises a real meal. Mrs. Winter will have charge of the dining hall. Mr. Patton will have charge of the sale of tickets.

A short interesting program will be given following the serving of the meal, with Mr. Leonard in the role of toastmaster. The Union High orchestra will furnish the music for the banquet.

Honus Wagner In Town Today

Former Famous Shortstop Of Pittsburgh Pirates Visiting Here Today

Honus Wagner is in town today. Years ago if that word had been spread, the "Flying Dutchman" would have been greeted a la Lindbergh or Eyrd, or some of the many notables, but time is fleeting and Wagner has had his day, and what days they were. Wagner is in New Castle today to visit an old friend of his, Walter "Hub" Hart.

Quite a fanning bee will no doubt take place, as the former baseball friends meet and talk over old times in the big leagues. Hart at one time was with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Tonight Wagner will be at the Y. M. C. A. to take part in the meeting of the New Castle Church League and talk to the managers. There will be no doubt be a big crowd at the "Y" to get a glimpse of a man who goes down in history of baseball as one of the greatest of all times. Any all-time team picked nowadays has Honus Wagner at the short-stop position, and he is rightly placed there. In his heyday the "Flying Dutchman" as he was commonly alluded too was a very colorful player and with the willow the big boy could not be beat. He was a reliable consistent hitter.

Old Father Time is slowly pacing off the years for Wagner. He is now grey with ripe old age coming on, but still today he gets out there and plays baseball and he still can pick them out of the dirt. Several years ago when New Castle had the old Castle Cord team, Wagner brought his All-Stars to this city for a game, and Wagner was one of the quickest of the boys.

Wagner is well known in this city and will no doubt renew a lot of friendships while he is the guest of "Hub" Hart today.

Three Held For Death Of Child At Rifle Range

Three In Pittsburgh Held By Coroner As Youngster Dies
Of Bullet Wound

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Pa., April 22.—The formal charge of arson was to be preferred today against three brothers, now being held in the county jail, charged with the burning of the tipple of the Superior Mining Company at Eldersville, Sunday night. Company officials place the loss at $150,000.

The prisoners are Harry Knight, 40, his brothers Harry and Dewey, 30, all of Eldersville. County detectives spent all of yesterday in the mining community and returned with their prisoners last night.

Interests in flyweight boxers increase enormously and suddenly when Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia's wee wop, outpointed Black Bill of Cuba recently in fifteen sparkling rounds at Madison Square Garden. By doing so the Midget won the world's flyweight championship so far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned.

However the National Boxing Association recognizes Frankie Genaro as holder of that title, and the New Jersey authorities accorded their own Willie La Morte that honor. Plans are being made to stake a series of eliminations between those three title holders.

In the meanwhile, those of us who saw Wolgast clearly defeat the speedy Black Bill in their sensational New York duel are convinced that the Midget deserves the crown. Unquestionably it was the fastest bout seen in years from beginning to end. Both boys were in great shape. Wolgast got a cut over his left eye through a collision in the first round, but that seemed to serve merely as a spur.

The Midget's marvelous left is a cross between a cobra's strike and a flash of lightning. Many old-timers assured The Sport Bug "it is the fastest left" they ever saw. And it had to be practically that in order to tag the truly Black Bill whose elusiveness was shadow-like.

Midget's left hooks to both head and body with the perfection of clarity and accuracy. And there was much steam in them—only the crafty Cuban's knack of riding the smashes saving him from the count.

Wolgast's real name is Giuseppe La Scalza. He lives with his parents and their big family in Philadelphia. This miniature Carrera has been boxing about three years. In more than 110 bouts he has lost but one—to Phil Tobias of Brooklyn. His best fighting weight now is 110 pounds.

Tom McArdle Madison Square Garden matchmaker, who is arranging a Wolgast-Genaro battle for the near future says that "Midget is the best flyweight I ever saw." And Thomas saw Jimmy Wilde and Pancho Villa in their prime.

Expenditures To Cover Plant
Improvements, Extensions
During 12 Months

HOBOKEN, N. J., April 22.—Stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation were told Monday that their company, were expecting 1930 to be a "good average year" was planning to spend $200,000,000 on plant improvements and extension during the 12 months.

Meeting in annual session here, the owners of the corporation received from James A. Farrell, president and Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, the report that operation during the first quarter had averaged 82 per cent of capacity and that the current rate was about the same.

Increase of $75,000,000. Taylor, who revealed that the company's budget called for expenditure of $75,000,000 more for improvements than had been set in the December estimate, referred to the stock market crisis last fall as "a very great readjustment in the securities market which to an extent was bound to occur, but which ran beyond its proper point in readjustment."

Most of the needed changes had taken place, he continued, adding: "We feel that because of these readjustments the situation today is basically sound and that we can face the future with a feeling of assurance, confidence and safety."

FROM TEE TO GREEN

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer-Artist.

The mashe is one of the most dangerous clubs known to golf—and one of the most valuable, if you know how to use it. Few players are really masters of the mashe. This No. 5 iron generally fails at the most important moment, unless the player has confidence in the stick.

The green player will remark, after a few rounds, that the mashe is the only club from which he can obtain results. This is true to that golfer, but he does not realize the facts surrounding this club in relation to his other sticks.

First of all, he is just starting out to learn the game and is tightening every muscle in his frame to control all his shots. He will not pivot on any of his strokes.

When he gets to the mashe he approaches with great pleasure and is not aware that he has probably played this club with more correctness than any he has used so far.

The mashe calls for no pivot whatever and the club must not come back over the shoulder. Note in the illustration the height of the club on the backswing and how the body is held for the backswing.

Also note the follow through. The mashe shot is crisp wrist action with the club going out for the hole.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Steve Culver may never wear any championship medals but no one will question his assimilative qualities.

Tony Herrera hit him with a lot of punches but Culver took them without flinching. In the forepart of the fight he made the error of trying to box with Herrera and when he did try to get close and toss em to the stomach in the last part of the fight Tony wouldn't stand still.

Billy Wallace is accredited by Jimmy Doyle of the Cleveland Plain Dealer with being a slight favorite over Joey Goodman who box tonight at Cleveland. The boys from Cleveland say that if the bout goes the limit Goodman should take the award but if Wallace hits Joey on the chin it may spell curtains. At any rate Joey will give Mr. Wallace a tussle and is confident of winning.

Floyd Stahl, athletic director at Silvers high, Dayton, O., has been signed as coach of the Ohio State freshman basketball team.

California has banned Primo Carnera and his manager, Leon Sec from California rings following his bout a week ago with Paul Chevalier.

Taheichi Harada and Tamio Abe won the net doubles from Herbert Kinzel and Heinrich Efferman, Austrians, 6-2, 6-3, 8-6 at Vienna.

Clarence de Mar is the veteran of marathons but he won the Boston event. There are few who have lasted so successfully as De Mar. He is 42 years old.

If Tommy Palaci is as fast as Herrera and hits as good as Tobias there ought to be a lot of action when Phil and he clash here next Monday night.

Pagan Morality Threatens Homes

American Homes And Ideals
Sweeping To Destruction
Through Morality

REPORT FINISHED
BY COMMISSION

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill., April 22.—The American home today stands in danger of destruction from a pagan morality now current in America.

That is the essence of the findings of the special Presbyterian commission on marriage, divorce and remarriage appointed by the Presbyterian Assembly last May at St. Paul. The report will be submitted to the Presbyterian General Assembly meeting in Cincinnati June 2.

The Commission's report, now made public, reveals the modern age as churchmen see it. Comment ranges from the practice of installment buying to popular "good stories" as elements affecting American home life.

Under the chairmanship of the Rev. Ralph M. Davis, of Erie, Pa., the commission describes conditions which it deems responsible for the rapid gain in divorce decrees.

The report calls attention to the "strange spectacle of American civilization raising questions in reference to monogamy." The report states that "imported vulgarities" are crowding out the conservative home moralities.

Other comments included: "Adultery has become the fashionable theme of the stage and motion pictures."

"Fiction writers advertise sex pathology as studied by specialists."

"Conventional moralities are openly jeered at."

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Market As Whole Is Rather Unsettled

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 22.—Continued weakness in the copper stocks and specialties in the early trading today unsettled the whole market, after a few of the favorites had pushed ahead vigorously behind powerful pool support to the highest prices of the year. Conspicuous in this new advance were Radio and Vanadium, the former reaching a new high at 65 1/2, up 2 points and the latter at 141 1/2, up 5 1/2.

When the industrial list as a whole failed to follow the upward trend of its leaders, professionals once again flooded the market with selling orders. United States Steel sold under 190 for a new loss of nearly 2 points.

General Electric dropped off about 2 points to 87 1/2, down 5 1/2 from yesterday's high and Westinghouse lost 6 points measured by the same standard.

The coppers slipped off to the lowest level of prices for the year as rumors of another reduction in the price of the Red Metal, this time to 12 cents a pound, floated through the financial district. At 65 Anaconda Copper was down 8 points from the high of last week.

Steadiness in the grain and cotton markets helped to steady the stock market near the noon hour, and investment buying was in good volume. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

Hoover Selects Payne Assistant Secretary Of War

Frederick H. Payne, Massachusetts, Selected By Hoover As War Assistant

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Frederick H. Payne of Massachusetts, was today selected by President Hoover to be assistant secretary of war. His nomination went to the senate for confirmation today.

Payne's selection came only after several months of painstaking search on the part of the president in the course of which literally scores of names were considered and investigated.

Greenfield was given as Payne's home town in Massachusetts, and at present he is chairman of the board of directors of the Greenfield and die corporation. He has been connected with banking and industrial concerns in and around Boston for many years.

During the war, the new appointee was a major in the ordinance department and now holds a lieutenant colonel in the reserves.

As assistant secretary of war he will have supervision over the procurement of all military supplies and all matters pertaining to industrial preparedness for war.

Tony Wanted To Look Nice Easter

Borrows Clothing Of Friend, While Having His Suit Cleaned

Tony Morella, well known about the city, wanted to be in good shape, that is as far as his appearance was concerned, for Easter, but he calculated without the law and the feelings of the man whose clothing he borrowed, while having his own clothing cleaned and pressed.

He borrowed the coat of one suit and the trousers of another suit of John Ferris, while his suit was undergoing needed improvements.

John became rather angered at having his good clothing used in this manner and made an information against Morella at the court of Alderman J. Lee Cooper.

Constable Michael Fazzone was handed a warrant and started to hunt for Tony on Saturday. He finally came upon him in the rear of the Ideal Baking company plant on South Mill street and placed him under arrest.

But Tony was still very desirous of remaining out in the open for Easter and urged the constable to lend him $125 to get his suit from the cleaner.

The constable declined and the matter was taken up with Alderman J. Lee Cooper, who however also found it necessary to decline as he had indulged before to the detriment of his pocketbook.

So Tony went to jail with his borrowed clothing and still there, because the hearing scheduled for last evening was continued until May 1, pending an effort to adjust the matter.

John W. Shaffer of 813 Butler avenue, reported that he was driving the car of Robert G. Shaffer south in the center of the public square and making a left hand turn onto East Washington street on the green light, as a car bearing Pennsylvania license IM691 going north on South Jefferson street made a right hand turn onto Washington street and they came together, both being damaged.

Complete Count In Seventh Ward Woman Victim Of Fiend, Succumbs

Completion of the count in the Seventh ward was made yesterday by the enumerators who have been at work on the task, the unofficial count showing the ward to have a population of 4640, Supervisor Brown stated.

The enumerators who counted the Seventh ward populace were Jennie C. Isabella, Mrs. Adda Wettich, and Mrs. Katherine B. Engs. Mrs. Isabella who was the last to finish her task, enumerated 2984 of these.

No other wards have been completed in the city as yet, but the enumerators are still plugging along at the task and several more hope to finish up today. There are nine enumerators still at work, and official reports are yet to be received from six of the city.

While definite figures are not yet available, Supervisor Brown stated today that he would not be surprised if the Census Bureau estimate of 49,000 was attained. At least the figure will run close to that amount, Mr. Brown feels.

MUSEUM GETS RELICS OF OLD MAYA PEOPLE

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill., April 22.—Some 300 relics of the ancient Maya civilization, said to have been the oldest and most highly developed among the aborigines of the new world, have been received by the Field Museum of Natural History here from a collector working in Central America, according to an announcement by Stephen S. Simms, director of the museum.

The collection includes a number of oboe-like whistles in the form of human figures played by means of several holes producing different notes. There are also a number of button shaped copper bells, with loops for attaching them to the clothing or stringing them into necklaces or anklets for ceremonial dancing.

Among the interesting items are pottery stamps, resembling in a general way the rubber stamps used today, which were employed to impress designs on the body. Amatto dye was used, producing an effect similar to tattooing, according to J. Eric Thompson, assistant curator in charge of Central and South American archaeology.

Other objects included a number of specimens of handsome painted pottery, jade beads, fragments of ancient idols and other artifacts. The material has been concealed for more than a thousand years in a thick forest which covered the ruins of an ancient city, and was exposed when modern Maya Indians cleared the ground with axe and fire in order to plant maize. The material is being prepared for exhibition with other Maya collections previously obtained by the museum.

Conference On Reeve's Proposal To Sell Conduit

E. A. Meyers, representative of the Bell Telephone Company, conferred yesterday with Mayor W. T. Gillespie and city councilmen relative to the proposal of Councilman Reeves that the city sell the municipal conduit system to the Bell Telephone Company.

The initial meeting was not fruitful of any definite move, and according to councilmen no price was set. The conduit system is taken over, but before any action is taken, way or the other Councilman Trever and Genkinger want to study the situation.

It is reported that the Bell Company offered to pay $65,000 for the system some time ago and the proposition was not accepted, as the former council believed that it was worth more than that amount to the company. It is not known if the company will offer the same or increase the amount.

While Reeves wants to dispose of the system, it is not known if the rest of the city rulers favor the disposal. Council tried to gain the temperature of the public's pulse when the offer was originally made, and council will delve into the problem thoroughly before acting, they indicate.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things
Around New Castle

There is an old picture hung on the wall of the second ward fire station, a picture that really can be classed as a piece of pictorial history of New Castle. The years have faded it considerably and unless something is done to stay the fading process, some day it will be too dim to be of use. It is a picture taken from the west bank of the Shenango river looking over the main portion of the business district of the city, and while there is no way of knowing definitely, I rather guess that this is the oldest photograph of the city that is now extant.

To begin with the west side bridge is not the structure it is today. Instead it is an old covered bridge, with the east and west cartways separated by a partition. The street leading up to the bridge is more of a cow path than a street while on the east side the street is just a dirt road.

Three buildings stand out in bold relief in the picture as a whole and the three are the First Christian church, the Martin Gantz school house and the court house. The other buildings are for the most part low frame buildings, and not many of them. Spots that are now busy streets are shown in the picture as meadow land, and where there are modern business blocks there were then just little bits of wooden buildings.

To my mind that old picture is a relic that should be prized. Down in Pittsburgh there is a place where they take old faded pictures and restore them to their original clearness through some sort of a process and this picture should be given that treatment. Then it should be put in to a real good frame and given a place of honor in the fire house, for it is something that many of us would like to own.

Enoch Hill, one of the pioneers of this city, remembers the old covered bridge, and reminisced over the days when he stumbled over cows in there, on dark nights. On stormy nights the bridge was a haven of refuge for the cows of the village and to a youngster the experience was probably rather terrifying.

Next time you happen into the second ward fire station, take a look at the old picture. It hangs on the wall just as you go in the door. And may I suggest again, that the picture should be given the decorative treatment mentioned above and given a place of honor, for insofar as I know it is probably the earliest photograph of the business district of New Castle.

The boys at the fire house are preparing to take up horseshoes this summer in a big way, bigger than ever before. The horseshoe court will be moved to the west side of the house and special clay put in for the pegs.

The gentleman named above, Enoch Hill, is the champion of the fire house but Dan Morrow, runner-up in 1929, insists that Hill is going to see some real action this summer for the championship.

As for the champ himself he had little to say. Looking over his pinched hand carefully, he melded one hundred aces and then remarked that he was in early season training. The training consists of painting his house and getting his garden in shape.

Spring house cleaning is on the schedule up there and the boys haven't much time to discuss the naval conference in London. The roar you hear from the second floor isn't thunder, it merely is Huey Horton stumbling over the water bucket as he cleans the walls.

Mark a ring around Friday for the music competition of the Northwest Pennsylvania Interscholastic Music League (what a name) and the best in high school music will be heard here in the high school and the Cathedral.

And mark up one more for the athletic student. That Rock of Gibraltar who played guard on the football team last fall, Merle Hart, has just won himself a scholarship that assays about $1200, and that isn't haircut money in any country. In spite of the fact that he was a real athlete, a star lineman and a tower of strength to the team, Hart is number one among the boys of his class and number six in a class of 215.

Rumor Stork Flew East With Lindberghs

NEW YORK, Apr. 22.—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who with her husband made a record breaking 14 1-2 hour flight Sunday from Glendale, Cal., here, will enter Fifth Avenue Hospital April 29, anticipating motherhood within a week or two there after, it was learned today.

From sources close to the Lindberghs and the Morrow families the Chicago "Tribune" confirmed the place and date.

Efforts to reach Lindbergh or his wife proved fruitless after they whizzed into New York from Roosevelt Field in the colonel's car, accompanied by a police escort and traveling at times at 70 miles an hour.
